التعليم الخاص 2021 - 2022

Do you find yourself sleepy at school? What you do before you go to bed has a huge effect on how you feel the next day. If you spend time chatting to people on the social media, or reading books on your e-reader, you are not alone. However, you ought to reduce your screen time at night. Although scientists are only beginning to understand the full effects, the main message they find out is that using devices like phones or tablets before bedtime is not good for your health.

All screens give out a large amount of blue light. It can change your sleep patterns. So you can wake up several times during the night and have difficulty getting up in the morning. Lack of sleeping well can be a dangerous problem for anyone specially teenagers because their brains are still developing. When you don't sleep well, it can be difficult to concentrate at school, which makes it harder to learn and get good grades. It can also affect your mood; so you feel sad and unhappy.

So, it's clear. You shouldn't use your phone or tablet before you go to sleep. You mustn't worry about your friends. Nothing on the social media is so important that it can't wait a few hours. Rediscover paper books and enjoy feeling tired rather than wondering why your best friend hasn't liked your photo. Don't use the alarm on your mobile. Buy yourself an old-fashioned alarm clock.

الاحمدى

In Bangladesh, many students cannot get to school regularly because of the common floods in the areas where students live. What can be done for students who cannot go to school as a result to the common floods? One solution is to bring the school to them.

Floating schools are schools on boats that travel to different areas in Bangladesh. Floating schools mean that even when students' houses are surrounded by water, students can still go to school. They can swim to the boats and then climb aboard. These boats are equipped with desks, books, and even computers. The computers are powered by solar energy- this is the energy that comes from the sun and is used to create electricity.

Floating schools maybe only the beginning for changes for this area in Bangladesh. The man who created these schools intends to create all types of floating stations: floating libraries, floating hospitals, and even floating gardens. As a result of common floods, experts predict that 20 % of the land in Bangladesh could be underwater by 2050. People who are living in these areas cannot move to a different part of the country because the country is already very crowded and there is not enough room for all those people. Since the flooding in Bangladesh will likely get worse, some people have decided it is time to find out how to live on water.

2022 - 2021 حولي

Max reads more than anyone he knows. He loves to read books during his free time. His friends laugh at him because he would rather read than play video games, but his parents and his teachers are proud of him. They say reading is important, and it will help him learn about the world around him.

One day, Max was reading a magazine article about volcanoes. He told his friends all about volcanoes and what causes them to erupt and send fire and smoke. The very next week, his class was assigned a science project about volcanoes. Guess who everyone wanted in their project group? Max ended up being in a group with Tim, Hank and Josh. The project was to create a poster with information about volcanoes and to build a volcano model. So, the group went to the library to look for more information about volcanoes. They met at Hank's house that night to organise the information and decide what they wanted to put on the poster board. They all asked Max what he thought was most important.

The second night they met at Josh's house to build their volcano. They used cardboard and modelling clay. The volcano looked great. Max, Tim, Hank and Josh were very proud of their hard work. When they turned in their project, their teacher was proud, too. Thanks to Max's good habit, they earned an A+ on both parts of the project.

Travelling is an adventure for most people. People travel for many different reasons. Some travel for business, some for pleasure and some for educational reasons. We travel to faraway places by cars, trains, boats and planes.

In the past, travelling was difficult. People travelled on foot or on horseback. Carts pulled by animals were also used for going to different places. Nowadays, travelling has become much easier. We can go anywhere in a short time and without any difficulty.

There are many benefits for travelling. Travelling allows us to experience new ways of living. It is a chance to visit beautiful countries with amazing places and cities. It makes life more interesting and provides new experiences and memories. Travelling is also an important part of our education because when we travel, we get to learn about the places we visit. We meet new people and learn about their cultures and traditions. Visiting historical places can help us learn about their history.

Travelling, however, has also some disadvantages. For example, it can be very expensive. It also needs a lot of time and planning.

The more we travel, the more we learn about the world we live in. Today, travelling has become an important part of modern lifestyle.

الجهراء 2021 - 2022

Travel is something which people do every day. It may be a trip to school, university or to work. Travelling can often take a long time, especially when great distances need to be covered. People usually use different means of transportation.

The use of a plane is necessary for people wanting to travel very long distances. It can take a lot of preparation to travel by plane. People often need to arrive at the airport three hours before the departure. A train is another means of transport which is ideal for travelling long distances within the same country, or between countries which are connected by land. A train driver will stop at train stations on the way to allow passengers to leave the train.

A number of destinations can be travelled to by using the sea. People often depart from a harbour in a ferry which is driven by a captain. If the journey is a long distance, people may choose to sleep on the ferry while they wait to arrive at their destination. Some people choose to go on a boat for their holiday, which would involve stopping at many different city ports for a short amount of time. People who need to travel short distances may choose not to use any transport at all. People often rely on their legs to take them to places nearby.

Octopuses are widely considered to be the most intelligent ocean creatures. They are famous for having eight arms and a giant egg-shaped head. They have three hearts and blue blood. They feed on small fish and shrimps. Because they are boneless, they can squeeze themselves into small spaces between rocks and hide from their enemies.

Scientists realised that octopuses can learn new things just like humans, such as learning tricks to get out of bad situations. If an octopus is attacked by an enemy, like a shark, it can use some skills to get away. Octopuses don't have teeth or sharp claws to keep themselves safe from harm. They use cleverer ways to protect themselves from their enemies.

Octopuses can change the colour of their skin to match the sand in less than a minute. They like to stay in shallow water where there are rocks and coral reefs. They can also hide by shooting ink into the water. This will temporarily blind the attacker, giving the octopus time to swim away. If an octopus is attacked, it acts like a sea snake. It will hide in the sand, keeping its arms visible and changing its colour to be like a sea snake.

The most amazing fact about octopuses is that the oldest octopus fossil found was from an animal that lived 296 million years ago-millions of years before the dinosaurs lived.

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c and d:

1 The best title for this passage is:

- a Coral Reefs
- b Sea Snakes
- c Ocean Scientists
- d Intelligent Creatures

2 The underlined word "visible" in the 3rd paragraph means:

- a can be seen
- b can be eaten
- c can be attacked
- d can be protected

3 The underlined pronoun "They" in the 2nd paragraph refers to:

- a claws
- b skills
- c octopuses
- d situations

4 According to the passage, octopuses eat:

- a teeth and claws.
- b rocks and sand.
- c sharks and big fish.
- d small fish and shrimps.

5 According to the passage, all the following statements are TRUE Except:

- a Octopuses were found long time before dinosaurs.
- b Octopuses can learn new tricks to protect themselves.
- c Octopuses change their colours to hide from enemies.
- d Octopuses can get into spaces because they are small.

6 The purpose of the writer is to:

- a describe the oldest octopus fossil.
- b show how smart the octopuses are.

Have you ever heard of an animal called a leopard? Maybe you've seen one at the zoo or learned about it at school. These big cats have light-colored fur that is covered in dark spots. They are known for being the strongest of the big cats. Sometimes they are mixed up with cheetahs, but they are not the same!

Leopards can be found in many parts of the world like India, China, and Africa. They can live anywhere from deserts to tropical places. Their dark spots help them blend with their surroundings. This is good because leopards are hunters. Their spots help them hide while they search for prey. The leopard's main food source is meat. It hunts weaker animals in order to have food. It will even hunt for fish and crabs in the water because unlike most cats, leopards love the water.

Leopards are night animals. This means they prefer to sleep during the day and move around at night. They have amazing eyesight and can see much better in the dark than a human. While most leopards have light fur with dark spots, there is a different type called the black leopard. It has dark fur with dark spots. It can be hard to see the spots because they blend into the rest of the fur. Unfortunately, the leopard population has been going down in recent years. This means there are fewer leopards being born. This is especially true in the countries outside of Africa.

A Choose the correct answer from a, b, c and d:

1 The best title for the passage is:

- a The Strongest Big Cat
- b Leopard Population
- c The Hunter Animal
- d The Dark Spot

2 The word mixed up in the 1st paragraph means:

- a searched
- b confused
- c found
- d covered

3 The underlined word "they" in the 3rd paragraph refers to:

- a countries
- b deserts
- c spots
- d furs

4 Leopards are night animals because they:

- a sleep during the day and move at night
- b have light fur with dark spots
- c hunt for fish and crabs in water
- d hunt weaker animals

5 leopards hunt for fish and crabs because:

- a they blend with the surroundings
- b they have light-colored fur
- c they love the water
- d they have dark spots

6 The writer's purpose of this text is to:

- a tell us about strong cheetahs

Pizza is certainly one of the world's favourite foods. But where does pizza come from? And who made the first one? In fact, people have been making pizza for a very long time. In the Stone Age, people cooked grains on hot rocks to make dough- the basic ingredient of pizza. Over time, people used the dough as a plate, covering it with various other foods, herbs, and spices. They had developed the world's first pizza.

In the early 16th century, European explorers brought back the first tomatoes from the Americas. Tomatoes are a standard ingredient in many pizzas today. At first, however, most Europeans thought tomatoes were poisonous (in fact, only tomato leaves and roots are). For about 200 years, few people ate tomatoes because it was thought they would die if they ate them.

Slowly, people learned that tomatoes were safe to eat, as well as tasty. In the early 19th century, cooks in Naples, Italy, started the tradition of putting tomatoes on baking dough. The flat bread soon became popular with poor people all over Naples. In 1830, cooks in Naples took another big step in pizza history-they opened the world's first pizza restaurant.

Today, up to five billion pizzas are served every year around the world. In the U.S. alone, about 350 slices are eaten every second! People may not know it, but every piece is a slice of history.

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c and d:

1 The best title for the passage above could be:

- a useful
- b delicious
- c deadly
- d expensive

3 The underlined word they in the "1" paragraph refers to:

- a foods
- b herbs
- c spices
- d people

4 Tomatoes were first brought to Europe by:

- a explorers
- b farmers
- c businessmen
- d cooks

5 According the 1st paragraph, you can never make a pizza without:

- a spices
- b dough
- c herbs
- d tomatoes

6 The purpose of the writer in writing this text is to:

- a warn the reader about eating pizza.

Did you know that dolphins are mammals? The word "mammals" means that they give birth and feed their young with milk. A dolphin breathes through a hole on top of its head. They have to come up to the surface to breathe. Most dolphins surface every few minutes, but they can stay under water for up to 15 minutes. Dolphins' colour is generally grey with darker backs than the rest of their bodies. Dolphins have a thick layer of fat under their skin. They need it to keep warm because they don't have fur like land animals.

Dolphins live in families which are usually led by a female dolphin. The dolphins in a family help each other, for example when raising their young. When travelling or hunting, several families might join together to make a larger group, also known as a school of dolphins. Most dolphin species have a long lifespan. In the wild, dolphins can live up to 50 years old, although the average age is 17 years.

Dolphins use echolocation to navigate and to find food :fish. Dolphins send out clicks that are returned from other objects in the water (just like an echo). This way a dolphin can locate food, other dolphins, or rocks.

Dolphins live in seawater but there are some species that live in fresh water: the river dolphins. Unfortunately, river dolphins are endangered and it is feared that one species, the "baiji", has already died out.

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c and d:

Many years ago, back in the eighties when I was young, there used to be a Japanese lady called Mrs. Jankow, who lived in one of the flats in a building in our neighbourhood. Her husband died many years ago and she lived with her cat Misty. Everyone in the neighbourhood liked her a lot and she liked them.

For the past few years, as she was getting older, people in the neighbourhood helped her as much as they could. Some neighbours used to get her medicines, gave her a lift in their car when she had a doctor's appointment. My mother liked to visit her frequently and take her some homemade biscuits, cakes and pies. Others came and brought her books which she enjoyed a lot, they also did some shopping for her and invited her to have lunch with their family.

She had a nice comfortable flat which she was very proud of. Although she had been living in Kuwait for nearly forty years, she still had a strong attachment to her native country, Japan. She was a good storyteller. I visit Mrs. Jankow whenever I go over to visit my parents. She is like family to me and I love her dearly. On the 14th December, something strange happened to the owner of an old Honda car! An accident, that he would not have imagined even in his dreams, happened to him. On a fine Monday morning, he was on his way to office. While waiting at the traffic light of the city centre, a brick fell from the top of a building site and hit his car's window. The owner of the car, Khaled, got shocked and couldn't think of anything.

Khaled didn't know first what had happened. The glass broke immediately and spilled on the nearby bikers too. He escaped with little wounds on his face and fortunately no one else was hurt. Traffic stopped and people around stopped to watch the accident.

When he recalled himself, he got out of the car and called the police. Meanwhile, the head engineer at the building site had also come. The engineer took the responsibility for the accident and apologised for what had happened. But Khaled was too angry, as he argued that the brick could have harmed him badly. He was determined to file a case against the construction company.

The engineer, along with manager, supervisor, and other workers gathered around the car owner to check his wounds. They calmed him down. The engineer requested Khaled not to take any serious action and also promised him to settle the matter peacefully.

In a week, the engineer bought him a brand new car. Then the company paid him a good amount of money. Khaled thanked them and apologised for being furious at the time of the accident.

Rahim was born to a rich family. Even as a child, he would share his money with the poor, because he was generous with no fear of the future. He got married and had sons. No one went away from their home empty-handed.

Rahim ran out of money. His family had to go without food for months. One day, Rahim managed to get some rice, butter, wheat and sugar. The family thanked God for giving them food and sat down to eat. Just then an old man knocked at their door. Rahim received the man and offered him the rice. The old man went away satisfied. Half of the food was still left for Rahim and his family.

As they sat down to eat, a hungry farmer and his son came looking for food. Rahim gave them the sugar and butter. There was still some food left. As his wife sat down to bake bread, a traveller appeared at the door. He had four dogs with him. He asked for food for himself and the dogs. Rahim offered whatever was left to him. The man revealed himself as Mr. Ali, the mayor of the city. "Rahim, I have heard too much about you, so I decided to test you. We will be happy to give you what you will ask for. Nowadays, everybody needs to be aware of the importance of protecting the environment. There are many original ways of recycling the things that other people throw away. Creative designers in South Africa are making new and interesting objects from rubbish, and helping local communities at the same time.

Young children of the country collect empty glass bottles from the local community and sell them to designers in the south who give them new life as necklaces or handles for knives, forks and spoons. The bottles are first broken into small pieces of glass, then crushed into powder and heated to a high temperature in an oven. It is dangerous work and it takes a long time. The glass is then melted by heat and shaped into beads, which are used to create necklaces and other objects.

Some other designers recycle old skateboards and turn them into sunglasses of different colours. They say: "Throwing away old skateboards is a huge waste. Top-quality boards are made of wood from trees, which take years to grow. It is very bad to throw these boards away each year. The wood is very light and so is perfect for frames for sunglasses."

Many large companies in Japan not only create new and original pieces from unwanted everyday items, but they also create jobs for many local people. These people work together in co-operatives, and so they all share the profits.

التعليم الخاص 2023 - 2024

Like people, other living creatures can communicate. However, animal communication is sometimes sound communication and sometimes action communication.

A good example of action communication is the honeybee. Scientists have watched the activities of bees for a long time. One bee starts out from a beehive, the bees' home. The bee goes out to look for flowers. It finds flowers and then flies back to the hive. At the hive, the returning bee seems to move around in a dance. Other bees seem to watch. Then these bees fly out of the hive straight to the same flowers. The first bee has somehow given information to the other bees. The bees communicated through actions.

Sound communication is more common among animals. Whales in the ocean seems to "sing" to one another. Scientists have listened to whale songs with underwater microphones. They know that each whale has his own song. Scientists can recognize some whales by their songs. So far, however, scientists do not understand what the whales are saying.

Some animals seem to want to talk to human beings. For example, dolphins in the ocean swim very close to people. They make high noisy little sounds to the people. Are they trying to talk? Animals are talking with one another. Perhaps someday we can learn their languages, and we can talk with them.

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c and d:

1 The best title of the text could be:

Have you got an exercise app on your phone? Many apps allow you to share your data with friends and even virtual friends around the world. For example, on many running apps, you can 'follow' other people in your area and see which runs they do and how fast they do them. Is it possible that our workouts will be influenced by our friends?

A recent study looked at data from 1.1 million runners from all over the world, and how often, far and fast they ran on every run over a period of five years. It found that, generally, people using running apps run more often if their friends, real or virtual, run a lot. The researchers thought there was a possibility that runners might not influence their friends, but that perhaps people looked for virtual friends who ran in similar conditions to them. So, they decided to check this by looking at the weather. If the weather is bad, people are generally less likely to go for a run on that day. However, they found that even when the weather was bad, surprisingly, people were more likely to run if their friends ran too.

The study shows how social media groups are important when it comes to exercising. So, if you find it difficult to get off the sofa and work out, maybe you need to find some active friends who could give you that push!

A

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c and d:

1 The best title for the passage above could be:

Imagine a place where colourful birds fly in the sky and where strange and beautiful plants grow everywhere. That is the rainforest! Rainforests are special forests, and they are different from other forests. They are found in warm areas with lots of rain. Many kinds of plants and animals live there.

One of the most famous rainforests in the world is the Amazon Rainforest in South America. The trees there are very tall, and they cover the sun. The forest floor is covered with all kinds of plants, and some grow on the trees. Rainforests are also home to many colourful birds and animals like parrots, monkeys, and snakes.

Rainforests get a lot of rain, making them humid and warm. This helps plants grow quickly. Many of these plants can be used to make medicine to help people feel better when they are sick.

Rainforests are very important for our planet. They help clean the air and keep the Earth cool. They also make oxygen and fresh air for us to breathe.

Sadly, rainforests are in great danger. People are cutting down trees to build houses and grow food. This is destroying the homes of many plants and animals. So, we need to protect these forests. We can do this by learning more about them and sharing what we know with others.

Working at Google is like joining a super cool club, and there are lots of awesome things that make it a great place to work. Did you know that there is a model of a big dinosaur on the first floor? Well, it is not just for show; it's like having a huge science project in the building! It shows that Google is all about exploring and discovering new things, just like when you read a fascinating book.

Now, here's something even cooler: the "dress code" at Google; you can wear jeans at work, and it's not just about fashion - it's about feeling comfortable and being yourself. When you're comfortable, you can focus better and work smarter with your team.

What is more amazing? Google allows people to bring their dogs to work! It's like having your furry friend (a pet animal) with you while you work on fun projects. Dogs make everyone happy, and Google knows how to keep its employees smiling.

But that's not all. Google has all sorts of games for people to play, and they even have a special fitness room that's open 24/7. It's like having a game club and a mini- gym right by your side. You can have fun, relax, and stay fit all in one place.

- d a super cool club

4 People working in Google can wear jeans because it:

- a is the best fashion of the week.
- b makes people feel comfortable.
- c keeps employees smiling all the time.
- d helps people explore new things.

5 All the following statements are FALSE EXCEPT:

- a Google is having a huge science lab in the building.
- b People working at google can take their families to work.
- c Employees at Google like to read fascinating books and stories.
- d People in Google have a special fitness room which is open 24/7.

6 The purpose of the writer in writing this passage is to:

- a show the steps of how to use Google as a search engine.
- b tell us about the benefits of going to the gym and keeping fit.
- c describe a furry friend and how it makes him happy at work.

The dictionary is the most important tool for all language learners. It gives them the different meanings and spellings of words. Most dictionaries help to pronounce words correctly by providing pronunciation and phonetic symbols. Moreover, they show the learners how to use the words correctly by giving them examples in meaningful sentences.

When you find a new word in a comprehension passage, it is not a good way to think directly of using the dictionary all the time to know its meaning. It is better for you to try first to understand the main idea of the passage and guess its meaning. Second, don't forget to look at the opposite of the word and try to remember it. If these two ways are not helpful, get the dictionary then and look it up. You will find different meanings for one word. You can use the appropriate meaning which will allow you to understand these words through the text.

Some books have a mini-dictionary at their backs. The electronic dictionaries are the latest. They have more advantages than the printed ones because they are easy to download and carry, you can take them with you everywhere and listen clearly to the correct way of pronouncing words. Fortunately, smart phones can be supplied with different dictionary applications to make them more attractive specially for those who do not prefer to use paper dictionaries.

A poor boy called Liang made his living by doing jobs for other people in his village, such as cutting wood and looking after animals. His dream was to become a great artist. He practised drawing all the time.

One night Liang dreamed that an old man gave him a magic paintbrush to help people with. When Liang woke up, he saw a beautiful paintbrush in his hand. Liang painted a bowl of rice. Suddenly it became real. Liang started helping villagers when they needed anything. He drew a river to water the crops for a farmer. Also, he drew a cow for a poor woman. Liang was a generous boy. People asked him, "Why don't you use your magic paintbrush to become rich?" He said, "I feel rich because I can help."

A rich man heard about Liang's magic paintbrush, and thought about stealing it. He sent his men to catch Liang. The rich man took the paintbrush and drew a lot of pictures, but not one picture became real. Then he asked Liang to paint a golden mountain for him to become the richest man. Liang drew a picture of a sea and a mountain of gold on the other side of the sea. Then he drew a golden boat. The rich man climbed aboard the boat. Liang began to draw a strong wind, and the boat set sail. Soon the wind became terrible and the rich man's boat sank and took him down with it.

The history of underwater diving started in ancient times. In early Greece and Rome, people used to swim or dive searching for food, collecting sponge or looking for valuable materials like pearls in the ocean. The brave divers would hold their breath and dive in the deep waters with the help of heavy stones weighing them down. They had to stay down there for minutes at a time.

Diving also became a popular sport in Sweden and Germany in the 18th and 19th centuries. Athletes should jump into water from a platform or springboard. They should have certain skills like strength, flexibility, balance, and power to win the championship.

However, diving is very dangerous. Many things can go wrong and cause death. But with good training, many of the dangers can be reduced. Drowning is the most common cause of diving deaths. Divers in the sea drown from running out of air, panic, lack of training, some health problems and equipment failure. As you know, humans breathe only air. Inhaling water can become deadly very quick. Divers should never put themselves in a position to run out of air.

To go diving safely, you need to be trained well by a diving training club. You should always dive with a friend that you are confident with. Stay calm, breathe, and have fun!
