The coach and the whole school wanted to see which kid would win the race for the school.

Ali could run well, but he didn't know how well the other boys ran. Would he be good enough to win the first place for his school? Each time it was Ali's turn to run, he began shaking and it was hard to breathe. He was so nervous! The coach knew Ali was afraid, so he pulled him aside and calmly with a soft voice said “Ali, I've seen your running skills. You have no reason to be nervous! Take a deep breath. I know you can do it.”

Ali worked very hard to win the race. Taking a deep breath, he got ready with the other boys. He saw his brother Salem and the rest of his family waving to him, which made him very happy. - Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions that follow:

What happens if you don't get enough sleep? Randy Gardner, a high school student in the United States, wanted to find out. He designed an experiment to study the effects of staying awake for an extended period. Under the careful supervision of doctors, Gardner managed to stay awake for eleven days and nights without sleeping! What happened to him during this time?

After the first 24 hours without sleep, Gardner began struggling to read and watch television because the words and pictures appeared blurry. By the third day, he had difficulty using his hands for simple tasks. On the fourth day, he started experiencing illusions. For instance, he mistook a street sign for a person and imagined it was a famous football player. Over the next few days, his speech became so unclear that people could not understand him. He also had trouble remembering things and performing basic mental tasks. By the eleventh day, Gardner failed a simple counting test. When he finally went to bed, he slept for 14 hours and 45 minutes and needed four nights to return to his normal sleep pattern.

Although Gardner eventually recovered, scientists warn that a lack of sleep can be harmful and even dangerous. Over a lifetime, people spend about 25 years sleeping. But why is sleep so important? Scientists are not completely sure. Some believe sleep helps keep brain cells healthy, while others think it helps the body grow and repair itself. Whatever the reason is, getting enough sleep is essential for good health.

Mock Exam

B- Reading Comprehension (16 Marks)

- Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions that follow: 16

In today's world, digital technology has become increasingly important in our life. From smartphones to laptops, people use digital tools for communication, work, and entertainment. Many students now attend online classes. Workers too can join virtual meetings from their homes. While these changes make life easier, they also create new challenges.

For example, people spend more time looking at screens than ever before. This can lead to exhausted eyes, back problems and lack of physical activity. In addition, some people feel lonely because they don't interact face-to-face as often. Even though we are more connected digitally, the quality of communication can sometimes feel less personal.

On the other hand, the digital tools have made learning new skills less difficult than before. People can use apps, online courses and videos to study anytime and from any place. They don't need to be in a classroom at a specific time. Also, many companies use technology to connect with a huge number of customers quickly.

The key here is to use technology carefully and in a smart way. Technology helps us learn, work, and stay in touch with others. But if we use it too much, it can make us tired, stressed, or even lonely. People should take breaks from screens, go outside, and spend time with others in person when possible. Digital tools are powerful and essential as we need them in our everyday life but they should not completely replace real-life experiences. If we use technology wisely, we can enjoy it and still have time for real-life experiences with friends and family.

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions that follow:

Social media has become a major part of modern life. Millions of people use websites like Facebook, Instagram, and Twitter every day. These websites allow users and students to connect with friends and family across the world. They make communication faster and easier than ever before. Young people spend many hours each day checking their social media accounts and posting messages about their lives.

There are many advantages to using social media. People can share news, photos, and ideas in seconds. Students can join online study groups and learn from others in different countries. Businesses use social media to advertise their products and reach more customers around the world. Social media also helps people stay informed about current events and important issues happening in their communities. It provides a space for people to express their opinions and raise awareness about causes they care about. Many charities and organisations use social media to spread their messages and find volunteers.

However, social media has disadvantages too. Spending too much time online can be harmful to mental health and happiness. Some users receive negative messages from strangers. Keeping information private is another concern because personal details can be shared without permission. Social media can also spread false information very quickly to thousands of people. Many young people feel pressure to present a perfect life online, which can lead to stress and worry. It is important to use social media wisely and take regular breaks from screens. Understanding both the benefits and risks helps people make better choices about their online activities.

As a high school student, Al-Sumait witnessed something that attracted him to help the poor. Every day, he saw poor workers waiting for their transportation in the heat, outside his school. With the help of his friends, he decided to save up money and buy a car, and from that day, he drove these workers for free. At university, Al Sumait used most of his monthly salary to buy Islamic books and he gave them to mosques. B- Reading Comprehension (16 Marks)

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions that follow:

Dreams are stories and pictures that our minds create while we sleep. Sometimes they are fun, strange, or even scary. But why do we dream?

When we sleep, our brain does not turn off. It keeps working, sorting through everything we saw, heard, and felt during the day. Dreams may help our brain comprehend our thoughts and feelings. They can also help us remember things or solve problems.

Some scientists believe that dreams are like movies made by our brain because they mix memories, feelings, and imagination together. They can also show how we feel inside. If you are worried, your dreams might be confusing or scary. If you are happy, your dreams might be fun. That is why you might dream about flying, talking to animals, or visiting places that you have never been before.

We usually dream during a part of sleep when our eyes move quickly. This is called "REM sleep". At this time, our brain becomes very busy, and most dreams happen then. Some people remember their dreams clearly, while others forget them quickly. It is said that if you wake up during the dream or right after it, you are more likely to remember it. But if you keep sleeping, the dream can be forgotten.

A good example of a dream that changed the world happened to Ibn Sina. He dreamed about solving a hard problem in medicine. In his dream, he saw the answer clearly. When he woke up, he wrote it down. That dream helped him understand the body better and became part of his famous book. (263)

Some websites may contain fake information, while others can attempt to steal personal data through phishing messages or online scams. To stay protected, students must develop a mindful attitude when using the internet. They should check the accuracy of information and avoid clicking on suspicious links. Experts explain that cyber security is not merely about avoiding danger; it is also about maintaining a positive mindset while navigating the online world. B- Reading Comprehension (16 Marks)

- Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions that follow:

A grizzly bear hunts for fish in the river. A black rhinoceros runs across the plains of Africa. These animals share the Earth with us. They fascinate us with their beauty, and we love learning about their habits. But just loving them is not enough. These animals are endangered. Many of them are dying, and without special care, they may someday disappear from Earth.

Africa was once filled with plenty of wild animals, but not anymore. One of these animals, the black rhinoceros, is powerful and can be dangerous. However, its strength can't always help it to escape hunters. Many hunters kill rhinos for their valuable horns. This has caused the black rhino to be placed on the endangered species list. The elephant is also endangered and is killed for its ivory tusks.

Unfortunately, it is people who cause many of the problems that animals face. We change and pollute their habitats. We hunt them for skins, tusks, furs, and horns. We destroy animals that get in the way of farming or building. And we remove them from their natural habitats and take them home as pets.

What can you do to help endangered animals? Make an effort to support zoos and wildlife groups. You can also be a smart shopper and never buy a pet that has been raised in the wilderness. Allowing even one species on Earth to die out affects other living things and changes our world.

B- Reading Comprehension (16 Marks)

- Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions that follow:

Learning a new language is an important thing that we should seek in our life. This language helps us to communicate with the other side of the world. It also gives us varied chances of jobs. Today, millions of people want to learn and improve their English but it is difficult to find the best method. Is it better to study in Britain or to study in your own country?

The advantages of going to Britain seem obvious. Firstly, you will be able to listen to the language all the time. You will be completely surrounded by the language. Another advantage is that you have to speak the language if you are with other people. In your country, it is always possible, in the class, to speak Arabic if you want to and the learning is slower.

On the other hand, there are also advantages to staying at home to study. You don't have to make big changes to your life. As well as this, it is also a lot cheaper than going to Britain. If you have a good teacher in your country, you can learn in a more concentrated way.

So, in conclusion, I think if you have enough time and enough money, the best choice is to spend some time in the UK. This is simply not possible for most people, so being here in your country is the only option available. The most important thing to do in this situation is to maximize your opportunities to use English whenever possible.

B) Reading Comprehension (16 M)

Read the following passage and answer the questions below:

Although it's not the longest river in America, the Rio Grande has great importance. Its location makes it important. Since 1846, it has been the official border of Texas and Mexico.

The Rio Grande is either the fourth or fifth longest river system in North America. It all depends on how it is measured. Because the river twists so much, it occasionally changes course. The river starts in Colorado and extends downward to the Gulf of Mexico. Not only does the river extend south, but it also starts in the mountains and gets lower and lower in elevation as it extends to the Gulf. Its name is Spanish for the "Big River," but the Rio Grande is known as Rio Bravo in Mexico. "Bravo" translates as furious so the name makes sense. Because of its twists and turns, it certainly does seem to be angrier than most rivers!

The Rio Grande is mostly used as a source of drinking water. Sadly, much water has been drained from the river. This is because people use more water from the river than the river can get back from rain and other sources. Parts of the river are almost dry! Experts are working to correct this, though, with hopes of restoring the river to its past strength. Today, the river is important as a source of water for Texans and Mexicans. More important, it is a symbol of cooperation between two nations. Though borders like the Rio Grande separate nations, they are also shared spaces. The Rio Grande is a symbol of friendship between two peoples.

b) it is the only source of drinking water in America.

c) It starts in Colorado and extends to the Gulf of Mexico.
