Online safety

Today, many young people use the internet every day for schoolwork, games, and communication. Although the internet is useful, it is important to understand how to stay safe online. One important rule is to create strong passwords. A strong password usually includes letters, numbers, and symbols. It should not be easy to guess, like your name or birthday.

Another key point is protecting personal information. Users should avoid sharing their home address, phone number, school name, or passwords with strangers. Even on social media, it is better to keep accounts private and only accept friend requests from people you know in real life.

It is also important to think before clicking on links. Some links may lead to unsafe websites or contain viruses. If a message looks strange or too good to be true, it is safer not to open it. Talking to a trusted adult or teacher can help when something online feels uncomfortable or suspicious.

Finally, being respectful online matters. Cyberbullying can hurt others deeply. By acting responsibly and carefully, everyone can help create a safer digital environment.
