Part 2: Reading

Grammar topics: Was- Were/ Past simple (regular verbs- irregular verbs)

Vocabulary: Mechanism, Control, Circuit, Button, Power, Function, Design, Purpose, Invent, Create, Change, Improve, Communicate, Electricity, Design, Innovation, Process.

Read the text carefully and choose the correct answer (A, B, or C).

The computer is one of the most important inventions. Before computers, people did many calculations and wrote documents by hand. This was slow and sometimes caused mistakes. Computers help people work faster and more accurately.

A computer has many parts. It has a screen, a keyboard, a mouse, and a processor inside. The processor is like the brain of the computer. It follows instructions and controls how the computer works. Electricity flows through circuits to make all parts work together. People use computers to write, play video games, communicate, and solve problems.

Over time, inventors made computers smaller, lighter, and more powerful. Today, people can carry computers in their bags. The purpose of a computer is to help people work, learn, and communicate more easily. Computers have changed the way people live, study, and work.

Choose the correct answer:

1. What did people do before computers?

Vocabulary: Antarctica, Dangerous, Compass, To sail, To travel, Unusual, Weather, Terrible, Fact, Journey, Noisy, Diary, Map, Sahara, Polar bears, Penguins, North, South, Safe, To wave.

Read the text carefully and choose the correct answer (A, B, or C).

Last winter, a team of explorers traveled to Antarctica. The journey was dangerous because the weather was terrible and the sea was rough. They did not have any problems with their ship, and they did not get lost because they used a compass and a map to stay safe.

During the trip, the explorers did not see any penguins at first, but later they saw some polar bears and penguins. They wrote some facts in their diary and took pictures. The wind was noisy sometimes, and the snow made the journey difficult.

At night, the team shared some food and water. They did not have any extra equipment, so they all slept close together. Everyone was happy because they learned many new facts about Antarctica and its unusual environment.
