Reading Comprehension

Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow.

The effect of colours

Bright colours affect active feelings. For example, the colour red can cause people to feel excited. In fact, red can even make a person feel hungry. Yellow can increase energy.

Therefore, a restaurant with strong red and yellow colours would be a good place to eat a lot of food quickly. On the other hand, darker colours, like blue and green, are peaceful.

The colour blue can help people calm down. So, a blue room can be a good study room, since people can concentrate more easily.

The colours of clothes can also affect feelings. Black and deep-blue clothes can produce a sense of strength and seriousness. Therefore, a person in a black suit can seem like a leader more easily than one wearing white. If a person is wearing a dark suit and a red tie, he or she may seem both powerful and energetic. Perhaps this is why many politicians wear dark suits with red ties. Brown and green clothes can produce a sense of confidence, which means it may seem easier to trust a person wearing such colours.

Therefore, many people choose to wear green or brown clothes for meetings or interviews.
