Reading Comprehension

Read the Following passage and answer the questions:

People choose jobs that match their personality and interests. A friendly person may enjoy working as a teacher or a salesperson because they like talking to others. Someone who is creative might become an artist or a designer. A careful and organized person may work as an accountant or a doctor. Choosing the right job makes people happier and more successful.

Some jobs need special skills and qualities. A firefighter must be brave and strong. A scientist should be curious and patient. A good leader must be confident and responsible. When people do jobs that suit their personality, they work better and feel more satisfied. That is why it is important to think about personality when choosing a career.
