Wilbur Wright was born in 1867 and his brother Orville in 1871. Both brothers were good pupils but because of problems at home, they did not finish high school. They learned by reading many books in their house and they used to ask questions about whatever they thought was interesting.

As they were bright mechanics, they decided to open a bicycle shop to sell and repair bicycles. In their free time they first built kites. The brothers' dream was to build the first engine powered flying machine. They designed and built their own engines and fans. Then they did many experiments until the historical date of December 17, 1903, on which Orville was the first person to fly an airplane called (Flyer1). The flight lasted only 12 seconds and covered just 120 feet.

In 1909, the brothers opened a factory to make aircrafts. Unfortunately, Wilbur died in 1912. He did not live long enough to see how planes improved, but Orville lived till 1948 and saw how the airplane changed the world and our lives.

The country of China is located on the continent of Asia. China's land area is nearly the same as that of the United States. The number of people in the United States as of 2019 is about 329,000,000, while the number of people in China is approximately 1,386,000,000. That's a big difference.

In China, you can find hot weather in the south and cold weather in the north. There is a large desert in the west, called the Gobi Desert, and three seas in the east. There are three major rivers in China. All over the country, you can find mountains and hills. The Himalaya Mountains, the world's tallest mountains, cross the southern part of China.

Even though it is a country with a different language and culture, the daily lives of Chinese people are more similar to us than they are different. Adults work, children go to school, and someone cooks the food. Clothes are washed, floors are cleaned, and homework is finished. The biggest difference is that families move through their days speaking Mandarin, the people's language.

Octopuses are very intelligent sea animals. They are fast swimmers. They can learn new things just like people. They've even learned to get away from dangerous things. If an octopus sees a dangerous animal like a shark, it can easily escape . Octopuses don't have sharp teeth to protect themselves. They use other ways to do that. They like to hide themselves in the sand in the bottom of the ocean. Octopuses can change their colour, to be like the sand, so other animals can't see them. Some of them like to hide between rocks and coral reefs. Similar to squids, octopus can hide by spraying ink. The ink makes a cloud that hides the octopus. It's like magic.

A volcano is a mountain where hot melted rocks come through the big hole on the top of it. The hot melted rocks deep below Earth's ground is called magma and it rises up to the big hole on the top. If the magma reaches the ground, it flows out of the volcano when it erupts or happens.

Scientists have classified volcanoes into three main types: active, dormant (sleeping), and extinct (no longer found). With an active volcano there is the possibility the volcano will erupt. A dormant volcano is a volcano that has not erupted in a very long time but there is a possibility that it may erupt sometime in the future. The third type, the extinct volcano, is one that erupted thousands of years ago and there is no possibility of another eruption.

The Earth has approximately 1500 volcanoes which are considered active, and about 100 of those are under the oceans. Marco got a letter from his Uncle, Ben, who is an airplane pilot.

Dear Marco,

I'd like to tell you about my visit to Rome. It was one of my best visits. I don't think there is any city like it in the world. Today, thousand-year old buildings still sit side by side with modern ones. In the middle of the city, you can visit the Colosseum which is one of the most famous places. It is a huge round area built of stone. It had seats for 50,000 people. The ancient Romans held all kinds of events there. Many of the young people of Rome move around on colourful bikes because the traffic in the streets is very bad. In the evenings, people meet at an ancient building known as the Spanish Steps. There are many ancient fountains in Rome. The most famous one is the Trevi Fountain. Parks and gardens also cover a large area in Rome. The Villa Borghese Garden is the best known large green area in Rome.

Moreover, Italian food, such as pizza and pasta, is really delicious and fresh.

Best wishes,

Uncle Ben
