Malek loves school. He says it allows you chances to grow but also has its difficulties. He thinks school is where mistakes are made and lessons are learned. School now provide many more opportunities to grow than they did in past. Students can gain knowledge, develop their skills and explore many different subjects. Classroom teaching, research projects and hands-on learning experiences all help students increase their language. School also offers activates such ae sports, clubs and arts which help growth. They offer students like Malek a chance to grow and explore their interests outside the classroom.

Malek sometimes finds it difficult to concentrate in class. He's surrounded by students who chat and deliver news about everything from the lates music to their weekend travels. He must develop a plan to have time for both schoolwork and his friends. Another difficulty the Malek faces is communication in English. Malak has problems with this as English is not his mother tongue. He often practices through the use of video tutorials and books on the computer instead of playing games.

Each student has the choice to learn and to improve themselves by gaining knowledge and achieving personal goals through other activities provided. Extra support can help if there are difficulties learning any subject, not only English.

Many students around the world travel to different countries for years to learn and study. We met Salma from Sharjah. She is studying in the Japanese University, in Tokyo. Salma said that she uses a lot of Japanese language .That's why she feels confident, and she can read and write Japanese language well. She also said that she visited new places there. She had new friends from Japan. She said that they are very kind and helpful. She likes the study there because in the future she can get very good job. Also, She said that her family is proud of her. The only thing she didn't like there is the food she didn't accept it any more
