Keep Our Mountains Clean!

Many people like to visit the mountains. Mountains are home to many plants and animals, like eagles and goats. This place is their habitat, so we should protect it when we visit.

Mountains are high and rocky. People should stay on the paths to stay safe. We should put litter in bins and keep the habitat clean. We should be quiet because lots of animals live here. Animals need a safe place to live and grow.

We shouldn't pick plants or hurt animals. We shouldn't make loud noises near nests or animal homes. When people are careless, wildlife can be in danger.

If we follow these rules, the mountains will stay clean and safe. It is important to protect habitats because animals can be safe and nature can be beautiful for everyone.

A- Choose True (T) or False (F).

1. Mountains are home to many plants and animals. T / F
2. People should stay on the path. T / F
3. People should pick plants and make loud noises. T / F

B- Answer the questions.

4. Why should people be quiet in the mountains?

.....

5. Why is it important to protect mountain habitats?

.....

C. Match the sentence halves.

1. People should keep the area clean....

a) because lots of animals live here.

2. We should be quiet...

b) because litter is bad for animals.

should -shouldn't /must - mustn't

What we should do (advice✓) - We should keep habitats clean. - We should protect wildlife.	What we shouldn't do (advice✗) - We shouldn't drop litter. - We shouldn't hurt animals.
must Must = it is necessary (a strong rule). Example: We must save water. / We must keep our school clean.	mustn't Mustn't = it is not allowed (a strong rule). Example: We mustn't hurt wildlife. / We mustn't leave litter.
After "should" "shouldn't" "must" and "mustn't, we use the base verb (no "to", no -s, no -ing).

A Day Caring for Nature

A Day Caring for Nature Sara goes on a school trip early in the morning. Her teacher tells the class to look around and enjoy nature. Sara sees trees, animals, land, and water. As they walk, Sara sees small plants. The teacher explains that plants need water and sunlight to grow. Later, the class sees animals living freely. The teacher says this is called wildlife, and it is important to keep it safe. After that, the class stops near a park.

Some rubbish is on the ground. The teacher says we should not leave litter and that we must keep clean our parks and places. Sara also learns that fires and pollution can be a danger to animals and plants. The teacher explains that we must protect animals and save water and energy every day. At the end of the trip, Sara feels happy because she learns how to take care of the world around her.
