Read the passage about the Arabic Coffee carefully and answer the following question:

Arabic coffee or (Gahwa) is a very important drink in Saudi Arabia and in the Arabian Gulf countries. Preparation, serving and drinking Arabic Coffee are derived from Bedouin hospitality. Usually, guests are served with Arabic coffee and dates

It is all about tradition, hospitality and ceremony. It's a sign of welcome and marks the beginning and the end of a guest's visit.

It can be served anytime at home, at social gatherings or business meetings. The coffee is served and received with the right hand. The host serving the coffee fills the small cup only half full. As soon as the guest drinks it, the cup is refilled continually until the guest gently jiggles the cup indicating he has had enough, it is customary to take 2 to 3 cups. Sugar and milk are not added but it is often served with dates. The trees that produce Arabic coffee can measure over three meters in height. The leaves of the Arabic coffee plant are also comparatively large.

My working day starts very early. From Monday to Friday I get up at half past three and I have a shower and a cup of coffee. I usually leave the house at ten past four because the car always arrives a few minutes early. I get to the studio at about five o'clock and start work. My programme Good Morning Britain starts at seven o'clock and finishes at nine o'clock. Then I leave the studio at a quarter past ten. After that, I go shopping and visit some friends. I get home at three o'clock. A woman helps me with the housework and the ironing. I read a newspaper and do some work.

Then my husband gets home at half past five in the evening and I cook dinner. We stay at home in the evening. We don't go out because I go to bed very early. We usually watch television and then I go to bed at half past eight, I'm usually asleep by nine o'clock.

I think my job is very interesting but I don't like getting up very early.

Alicia Smith and Jenna Greer are identical twins who, at birth, were orphaned and adopted by different families. Incredibly, they grew up just 25 kilometers apart from one another, with each believing .that she was an only child

Some would say that the story of their recent accidental reunion was coincidence. Some would say it was meant to be. Upon graduating from high school, each of the girls chose to study psychology at universities only 2 kilometers apart. While attending university, Jenna kept noticing that strangers would wave and say hello to her. Meanwhile, Alicia's friends complained that she sometimes didn't wave back at them when they saw her on the street. Listen to the young women tell the story of how they .discovered one another

Alicia: A friend of Jenna's came to a study meeting at our dorm when I was twenty. She was shocked by how much I looked like a friend of hers. Of course, that friend was Jenna. She kept telling me that I had to meet this friend. She showed me a picture of .Jenna and gave me her email address

Jenna: After exchanging a couple of emails and talking to our parents, we discovered that we were sisters. So we made plans .to meet

Alicia: The first meeting was really emotional. I thought my heart was going to thump out of my chest. It was strange seeing my ,face on someone else's body. And as soon as we started talking .we both noticed how similar our accents and mannerisms were

Jenna: As we got to know each other, we found out that we'd lived lives that were, in many ways, incredibly similar. It's uncanny how much we have in common. Both of us have been painting since we were five, we both liked horses, we both planned to study teaching, and we had both volunteered at the community .support center

Alicia: But I think the strangest thing of all is that we even have the same recurring dream. One time when Jenna and I were talking, she described the same dream that I've had since I was a .child. I was so freaked out that I just dropped the phone

Jenna: I really believe that we are meant to be together. I think it was supposed to happen now. Not when we're older, or when we were younger and wouldn't have understood. This way we can enjoy each other for the rest of our lives.
