I always enjoy the drive into Leeds. It is a good straight road, with some pleasant views of the countryside on either side. There are woods and hills, villages and farms. Although there is too much traffic on the road, I can usually enjoy the view as I drive along.

I was rather annoyed the other morning when a small blue car began to drive very close behind me. I went a little faster, hoping to leave the car behind. However, whenever I slowed down, the little car caught up with me.

The driver, a middle-aged man, was waving to me. However, I did not recognise either him or the car. Again, I began to drive a little faster, but the little car caught up with me whenever I slowed down." Perhaps I am doing something wrong," I thought. I checked my lights and my indicators, but they were both in order. Moreover, I certainly did not have a puncture.

I drove off very fast, leaving the small blue car behind. I did not slow down until I got to Leeds. There is a traffic light which turned red as I approached. I was still waiting there when the little blue car caught up with me. The driver got out and tapped on my car window. I opened it. " Can I help you? " I asked rather coldly. Did you know that sleep is more important than food? A person who does not sleep dies at a younger age than a person who does not eat. We spend about one-third of our lives in sleep.

How much sleep do we need? The amount of sleep people need depends on different things, including age. Most healthy adults need between 7 to 9 hours of sleep each night to work at their best. Children and teens need even more. After the age of 50, people get only 5 to 6 hours of sleep each night. We need less sleep as we get older.

Most people have some nights when they cannot sleep. Poor sleep increases the risk of accidents and other illnesses like heart disease. It may also lead to poor memory. Getting too much sleep may not be good for people either. Too much sleep is linked to sickness.

Many famous people in history had a problem falling asleep. Some of these people had special ideas to make them sleep. For example, King Louis XIV of France had 413 beds. He moved from one to the other hoping to fall asleep.

Making simple but important changes to your daily habits can have a great influence on how well you sleep. Tokyo, Japan is divided up into small cities. There are twenty-three cities that make up the whole of Tokyo. Tokyo is a crowded noisy place to live in, especially for the 500,000 people who live there.

However, in 2002, one of the cities had a big problem. Thieves were breaking into houses and stealing things! In fact, in that year alone, more than 1,700 houses were broken into. The police knew that something had to be done to control the crime in the city.

The police proposed the idea of using flowers to control the crimes in the city. They asked people across the city to plant flowers around their houses and along streets, especially in places where crimes happened. The idea was that if people were outdoors taking care of the flowers, they would be watching who comes and goes at the same time. Thieves would be less likely to come when people were outdoors watching things closely.

Over the next few years, the smart idea of “Operation Flowers” seemed to work surprisingly well. Just two years after people began planting flowers on streets and in front of their homes, crime in the city became less! In addition to the flowers, the city police installed 200 security cameras all over the city. Also, the city had more than 9,000 volunteers to serve as crime-watchers across the city. One thing that so many volunteers enjoyed was walking around their neighborhoods, admiring the flowers that have been planted while they do their duty as crime-watchers.

B- Reading Comprehension (16 Marks)

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below:

John's dog was a mischievous dog. It bit people frequently. It was not an appropriate way for a dog to behave. John was utterly concerned. The news about the dog spread through the village. None of the people wanted to go to John's house. John tried to instruct the dog to behave well, but it never worked. He tried to be patient and teach the dog to be calm. That also didn't work.

John's friend came to talk to him about the issue because the villagers asked him to represent them. His friend said, "Why don't you put a bell around the dog's neck? This way, we would hear your dog coming down the street." John thought this was a great idea. Now, people could stay away from the dog. It would not be able to bite anyone anymore. The dog liked the bell, especially the song the bell played when he walked. This made the dog very content with the nice song.

One day, John's dog strolled through the village and met some other dogs. He expected them to want a bell like his. But they laughed at his bell. They said the bell made people avoid him. John's dog shook his head. "No, they look at me because they like the bell."

The other dogs said, "You have the wrong idea of what makes you popular. Of course they like your bell. It tells them where you are so they can avoid you. You aren't able to bite them anymore!" You see, being popular isn't something positive when it's for the wrong reason.

Nellie Bly was a newspaper reporter. When she read a book by Jules Verne titled “Around the World in Eighty Days”, she thought of a great newspaper story. She would make her own trip and do it in fewer than 80 days.

In 1889, a trip around the world was much harder than it is today. There were no airplanes or cars. There were only trains and ships. Also, women did not travel alone much during that time.

On November 14, 1889, Bly left New York City on a steamship called the Augusta Victoria. She only took one small handbag with her. Her only clothes were the ones she was wearing. On the first night, a terrible storm rocked the ship. She couldn't turn back because the world was watching. When Bly reached England, she learned that Jules Verne wanted to meet her. Bly was so excited to meet the famous author that she travelled to France, losing two nights of sleep to stay on schedule.

Bly took notes of the food she ate, the clothes people wore, the different languages she heard, and the different cultures she met. The newspaper published Bly's stories. Thousands of people around the world read them in the papers.

Bly reached San Francisco with 12 days left. She got on a train that raced across the country in 4 days. On January 25, 1890, she returned to New York City with thousands of cheering fans. Bly had travelled around the world in 72 days. It was a new world record!

8- You can find an abundance of information on the Internet about the topic of your research.

B- Reading (16 Marks)

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below:

Do you know what I love about books? It is not just the stories, created by talented authors to take us into imaginary worlds, but I also love the covers of the books. As you walk into bookshops, you cannot help noticing them. Covers look beautiful because much care has gone into designing them. Some people say you should not judge a book by its cover, but unfortunately, that is exactly what many people do. Personally, I do not see any harm in judging a book by its cover. If all books looked the same, and gave us no information about the author, surely it would be harder to choose.

Recently I took part in a reading experiment. I was one of two hundred people who received a book to read within ten days. The book had no cover, title, or the author's name. I am the kind of person who does research about a book before opening it. So, without a title, I could not search through online reviews.

While I was reading the book, I did not enjoy it much. And when I was finally told the title and the author's name, I was amazed. This was the same person who had written one of my favourite books. I could not explain it. Some people might say that, because I knew nothing about the book or its author, my opinion was more honest. However, I am not sure I agree with them. I believe that it prevented me from enjoying what I would normally consider to be quite an enjoyable book. Although reading a book in this way was an interesting experience, it was not one I would like to repeat.

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below:

Air pollution refers to the pollution resulting from gases, dust, fumes and other substances which can be harmful to humans, animals, plants and all living things. The air is polluted and unclean. Air pollution affects the earth's atmosphere.

The atmosphere of the earth is like a blanket of air which protects all living things. Without the atmosphere, life would not exist. The atmosphere protects living things from the heat of the sun during the day and at night. It prevents the warm air from escaping. Basically, the atmosphere helps keep the living things on earth from burning up or freezing.

It is difficult to completely escape air pollution since air is the source from which people get the oxygen to breathe. Pollution can travel with the wind from one place to another and spread over remote areas. Pollution can be caused by humans or it can also occur naturally. For example, natural pollution may come from volcanoes, forest fires, windstorms, and other sources in nature.

Man is also responsible for polluting the air we breathe. Smoke and fumes from manufacturing plants and various industries are examples of man-made pollution. The burning of fossil fuels used for transportation is a major source of pollution as well. Household waste and pesticides make the problem even worse. Reducing pollution, in fact, is not the responsibility of governments alone. Individual people, for instance, can grow more plants and contribute to recycling efforts.

People have very different ideas for their dream home. Some people dream of a simple house in a special place. Others want a large house with everything that makes life easy.

Ambani, a businessman in India, is the owner of the most expensive house in the world. Ambani's dream house is 27 floors high. It has room for everything his family needs. Ambani owns a lot of cars, so the first six floors of his house are just for cars. Another floor has a movie theatre with seats for 50 people. Two floors are for a health centre with a gym and a swimming pool. The four floors at the top of the building are for the Ambani family. From there, they have a view of the sea.

Henry, an American writer, lived from 1817 to 1862. At the age of 28, he built his dream house. It was so special as it was a very small house—just 3 metres by 4.5 metres. Inside, there were just three chairs, a bed, a table, and a small desk. The site of his house was very important to Henry. He built it in the woods close to a wonderful lake.

Mutombo, a basketball player, built a very different type of dream home. Mutombo grew up in the Congo, but he moved to America to study. He wanted to be a doctor, but instead he became a famous basketball player. Mutombo's dream home is in the Congo, and it has beds for 150 people. It also has an emergency room, many exam rooms, and some beautiful gardens. Mutombo didn't build his dream home for himself. Instead, he built it for the people in his native country. Seals are mammals that live near the sea. Seals don't move around very easily on land. When they do spend time on land, they usually are watching over their newborn "pups." But they spend most of their lives in the water. Seals can dive as deep as 1,000 feet, and can stay under water for over an hour. They can even sleep under water.

The two types of seals most often found in the North Atlantic Ocean are the Gray Seal and the Harbor Seal. These two types of seals are about the same size, and look very similar, but they have some differences.

Harbor Seals have smaller faces than Gray Seals. They have a forehead, and a small nose. Their face looks like a kitten's. Gray Seals have no forehead, and a large, wide nose. Harbor Seals' faces look cute, and Gray Seals' faces look rather dangerous.

Gray Seals are often very aggressive. If accidentally caught in fishing nets, they put up a fight. They have been known to attack other large fish. But Harbor Seals feed mostly on small fish. They are very curious, and will often follow boats, to see what is going on.

Once a Harbor Seal saved a dog's life. The dog slipped and fell into a river and was swept out to sea. A Harbor Seal started swimming around the dog, pushing it toward the shore. when rescuers got to the dog, there were three Harbor Seals swimming up and down keeping an eye on the dog. VI-Reading Comprehension ( 16 marks )

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below:

Nowadays it is not difficult to find fast food restaurants in almost every big city. Most people prefer fast food restaurants. Speed and price make them the favourite restaurants. Some people don't want to spend a lot of time preparing food. So, they can order what they want and eat it in about fifteen minutes. That's why they are called 'fast food restaurants'. The prices are also cheap because of the large number of meals sold every day.

People like to be comfortable and enjoy their food. The famous fast food restaurants like Hardee's make sure that a beef burger in Kuwait tastes the same as the one in New York and not different from the one bought in London. Beef burgers have too much salt, fat and spices. This mixture of fat, sugar and salt set off the pleasure chemicals in the brain. That is why people like having fast food. But, some people say that they are not good for health. They don't have the important food elements which our bodies need.

Food experts advise us not to eat food conserved in cans. Tinned food is not healthy because it is not fresh. Sometimes, fast food is not well protected from dirt, dust, and insects, especially flies. Such food doesn't also have enough proteins and vitamins. So, eating fast food every day leads to horrible fatness and causes many dangerous diseases like heart attacks and high blood pressure. It's better to avoid being addicted to fast food.

People often have to use a vehicle of some kind to travel great distances. Some people now use bicycles, motorbikes, or cars. A car has an engine called a combustion engine. That means that it gets the power to move by burning gas or petrol as fuel. The car runs on tires filled with air. Most people, however, probably travel by buses that also have combustion engines like cars.

However, vehicles like cars with combustion engines burning fuel give off gases that are dangerous for your health. They pollute the air and create a danger for us.

In most countries now, there are electric trains that do not cause any harm to the environment. They go at great speeds on their rails. In some countries, they go almost as fast as some planes.

Ships and boats have propellers to move them. A propeller causes a ship or aircraft to move, it consists of two or more blades that spin at high speed. The propellers turn very fast in the water and that pushes the ship. A rudder, like the tail of a fish, is used to guide it.

Some planes use propellers that turn in the air. However, most planes have jet engines. They push the plane with great force. If you go to an airport where the planes land, you can see the jet engines on the wings of the plane, though on some planes they are near the tail.

I used to work as a teacher in the north of England. It was not a bad job and I really liked my students, but I began to feel tired, so I decided I needed a break.

I had always loved travelling, so one weekend I typed 'international volunteering' into an internet search engine. At the top of the results page was the possibility to go and stay on an island in the Indian Ocean and help to protect the beaches and the sea animals. I began joking to friends about sending in an application. I had some diving experience, and the more I talked about it, the more I wanted to do it, so I contacted the organisers. One week later, they offered to send me to the island, and I accepted.

The volunteer job was only for two months during the summer holiday. I thought after I had finished, I would come home. As soon as I got to the island, I was sure I had done the right thing. My first dive was incredible. I felt so lucky to be able to experience that every day. In fact, I loved it so much that I never came home! I have now been on the island for ten years and I have a permanent job. I'm working as a marine educator, teaching volunteers about the sea life and taking them snorkelling and diving.
