D- Reading Comprehension:

Read the story below. Analyze the story structure and answer the questions.

When 'Tricia Ann got ready to go downtown for the first time, her grandmother told her, "Hold your head high. Act like you belong to someone." 'Tricia Ann knew that her grandmother wanted her to act brave. 'Tricia Ann remembered her grandmother's advice as she took the bus to a place she called Someplace Special. Sometimes she was frightened because people looked at her in an unfriendly way. She saw signs marked Whites Only and Colored Section.

When she saw the signs, she felt sad. She wondered why African Americans like herself could sit only in certain spots. 'Tricia Ann held her head high, just like her grandmother told her.

Finally, she made it to Someplace Special. Her special place was the public library. It was a building where all people were welcome, no matter what color of skin they had.

1. Who are the characters in the passage?

c. Read the passage and answer the questions.

Aunt Jamie lives in Homestead, Florida. Jamie has lived in Florida all her life and is used to its weather. She is very energetic and likes outdoor activities. She was living there in 1992 when Hurricane Andrew hit the state. She had just returned from a vacation in the Everglades when she heard about a storm in the Atlantic Ocean. First she followed the weather reports and then made preparations to leave as the storm drew near. Next she nailed boards across the windows of her house to try to prevent damage. Hurricane Andrew turned out to be one of the most destructive hurricanes ever to hit the United States. Seven inches of rain fell in Florida during that storm. The winds were more than 155 miles per hour. When Jamie returned, she found that many trees had been uprooted in her neighborhood. One had fallen on the roof of her house. Jamie's house was damaged, but it was still standing. Many houses in Homestead were totally destroyed.
