All About Furniture

Frank's uncle gave him a riddle to solve: "What has three or four legs, no back, arms, or head, and you sit on it?" Frank was stumped, but never liked to let his uncle win in riddle contests, so he looked around his house, searching for possible answers.

In his room, he had a bed, which had four legs. It actually had four rollers and a couple extra spots that held it up. Also, it had a headboard, which was sort of like a head, and he didn't really sit on it so much as lie down. How about his dresser? That had four legs and no head or back, but he didn't sit on it. He got up and looked around some more. His desk was the same situation as the dresser: he didn't sit on it. His computer chair had five wheels, and it had a back and arms. This was hard!

Frank wandered out into the dining room. The table didn't fit the description any more than the dresser did, and the high-backed chairs certainly didn't, either. In the living room, the sofa was a strikeout because of the backs and arms. What could it be? He walked past the bathroom, but the toilet and shelves didn't make sense. What exactly was there left in his house that fit the description?

He looked more, walking past his sister's room, the laundry room, and his parents' room. Still, nothing worked as an answer. He was about to give up, and was heading back to his room to contemplate the matter further, when he went past the kitchen. There, in front of the kitchen counter, was the answer. He laughed aloud. Do you know what it was?

The answer was: a stool. It could have three or four legs. It didn't have arm, a back, nor a head. It was also meant to be sat upon. The whole time, it was something as simple as that. Frank called his uncle right away and told him the answer. He is now ready for the next riddle whatever it might be.

1. What did Frank's uncle give him?

- A. a letter

Ali and his brother lived in a small house in a farm near the city. They used to study and do their homework at the same table every day. Each one sat at an end. One afternoon, Ali was doing some math homework. It was his favorite subject. When he finished doing his homework, he noticed a colorful book near his brother's arm. It was closed, so he could read the name of the book on its cover. He found out that this book was a story which his brother studied at school. To his big surprise, it had the same name of a good funny film which he had seen before last year. He remembered that he liked this film much and admired all the characters in it. His brother told him that the film and the school book had the same story and were written by the same writer. He opened the story and began to narrate the story to his brother Ali chapter by chapter. Ali kept laughing a lot while listening to his brother telling him the events in the story in spite of knowing all events in advance.

Unfortunately, they did not know that their father was standing outside next to the door room. He was listening to them. Then he came into the room all of a sudden. It was a big surprise that both of them were shocked. They kept silent and said nothing. Their father was very angry because he thought that they were just talking about funny films and stories, not doing their homework. He decided that they should not study their lessons in the same room again.

Robot

A robot is a machine. But it is not just any machine. It is a special kind of machine. It is a machine that moves. It follows instructions. The instructions come from a computer. Because it is a machine, it does not make mistakes. It does not get tired while a human being gets tired quickly at work. It never complains unless you tell it to do that!

Robots are all around us. Some robots are used to make things. For example, robots can help us make cars. Some robots are used to explore dangerous places. For example, robots can help scientists explore volcanoes. Some robots are used to clean things. These robots can help you vacuum your house. Some robots can even recognize words. They can be used to help you answer telephone calls. Some robots look like humans. But most robots do not. Most robots just look like machines.

Long ago, people imagined robots. Over 2,000 years ago, a famous poet imagined robots. The poet's name was Homer. His robots were made of gold. They cleaned things and they made things. But they were not real. They were imaginary. Nobody was able to make a real robot. The first real robot was made in 1961. It was called Unimate. It was used to help in making cars. It looked like a giant arm.

In the future, we will have even more robots. They will do things that we can't do. They will do things that we do not want to do, too. Or they will do things that are too dangerous for us. Robots will help us fight fires. They will help us fight wars. They will help us fight sickness. They will help us discover things. They will help us make life better.
