ENRICHMENT SHEET #2

READING Read the passage and answer the questions ...

Many people think that a whale is a kind of fish. A whale is not a fish at all. But whales and fish are very similar. For example, whales and fish spend their lives in the water and they both have fins. They use the fins to swim. Whales often stay together in groups called Pods. Many kinds of fish also stay together in groups.

Whales are different from fish in an important way. A fish can breathe underwater. A whale cannot. A whale must come to the top of the water to take a breath. It takes in air through a hole on its back. A whale can hold its breath under the water for a long time. But after a while, it must come back up for more air.

A whale and man are similar. They both have hair on their bodies. Their hearts have four parts. Their bodies always stay about the same temperature. Of course, man is different from a whale in many ways. Man doesn't have fins or a tail. He spends all his life on land. When you go swimming or dive under the water and come back up for air, you are like a whale!

Whales are the biggest living things on Earth. They are completely endangered. People must stop killing whales. It is important to save them. Whales are beautiful and attracting animals!

READING

 Read the passage and answer the questions ...

For the past century, people have admired Robert Falcon Scott, a pioneer who attempted to be the first person to reach the South Pole.

In 1910, Scott led his second expedition to the Antarctic. He and his crew arrived in January 1911 and set up camp in McMurdo Sound. As they travelled south, they met awful conditions. Their sledges and ponies could not cope. Even the dogs had to turn back. Eventually, there were just five men left; Scott, Wilson, Oates, Bowers and Evans. They battled on, but when they reached the South Pole on 17 January 1912. They found a small tent with a Norwegian flag. The Norwegian explorer Roald Amundsen reached the pole a month before Scott.

Like all people who have been beaten, the men were extremely disappointed when they started their return journey. They struggled through blizzards. Evans died in February and then Oates, who had severe frostbite, walked out into the freezing conditions on his thirty-second birthday. He didn't return. The remaining three men finally died of starvation and exposure on 29 March 1912. Tragically, they were only twenty kilometers from a food supply. Eight months later, a search party found their tent and their diaries. Their notebooks, letters and diaries described the tragic events.

Since then, Scott's bravery has been greatly admired by the British people, and he has become a national hero.

- ✚ Write an email of 8 complete sentences, narrating a good/bad experience you had to one of your friend.

Once, I was alone at home with my small brother. It was after midnight. I heard a strange noise in the kitchen. I was very afraid.

I thought there was a thief. I did not know what to do. I got a long stick of wood. I moved slowly. The kitchen lights were on.

When I got into the kitchen, I was surprised. My small brother was opening the fridge to drink cold water. It was a scaring situation.
