Directions:

Read the passage and answer the questions that follow :-

Marco Polo was born in 1254, in Venice, Italy. He was a famous traveler. When he was 17 years old, he went to China with his father, Niccolò, and his uncle, Maffeo. Pope Gregory sent them to visit Kublai Khan, the emperor of China. Kublai Khan liked Marco Polo. He enjoyed Marco Polo's stories about many lands. Kublai Khan gave Marco Polo a job. He sent Polo on diplomatic missions. He also made him governor of Yangzhou, an important trading city.

When Marco Polo went back to the Venetian Republic, he talked about his life in China. Few believed his stories. In 1298, he went to jail during a war between Venice and Genoa. While he was a prisoner in jail, he dictated his stories about China to another man in jail. The man wrote down the stories. The stories became the book, "The Travels of Marco Polo." Each chapter of the book covers a specific region of China. Each chapter is about the military, farming, religion, and culture of a certain area. The book was translated into many languages. It was a great book.

Marco Polo got out of jail in 1299. He went back to Venice to join his father and uncle. He became very rich. In 1300 he got married, and he and his wife had three children. Marco Polo died in 1324. He was almost 70 years old.

In the centuries since his death, Marco Polo has received the recognition that failed to come his way during his lifetime. So much of what he claimed to have seen has been verified by researchers, academics and other explorers. Even if his accounts came from other travelers he met along the way, Marco's story has inspired countless other adventurers to set off and see the world.

Elephants never forget

Elephants are very large animals. They are the largest land animals in the world. Elephants are also clever and sensitive because they have good memories—they can remember their relatives for a long time. They care for their families and appear to show sadness when loved ones die. These animals are strong and gentle but unfortunately, they are also in danger survival

Elephants, like most animals, have two essential requirements to survive which are food and water. Elephants get their food and water from their habitat. A habitat is an area where an animal lives that supplies food and water.

Today, many herds of wild elephants are fighting to survive. Many thousands of years ago, large elephants called woolly mammoths roamed the earth. These ancient relatives of today's elephants are now extinct.

Are African elephants all alike?

Today, there are two main groups of elephants—African and Asian. They are easy to tell apart if you know what to look for. Scientists have also discovered that African elephants may include two different species—forest elephants and savannah elephants. Savannah elephants are larger than forest elephants. Their ears are bigger and their tusks are more curved. Elephants are hunted for their tusks. All elephants are herbivores. They eat grass, leaves, and fruit. They can spend 18 hours each day eating. An adult elephant might eat more than 400 pounds of food in one day. They also need about 30–50 gallons of water each day. They travel long distances to find it.

Directions: Read the passage and answer the questions.

- (1) Watching television is an experience shared by most adults and children. Because TV is cheap, a lot of people have a TV set at home. More than 90% of the children watch TV. Sadly, TV isn't used in a good way to get the best possible benefits from it. The purpose of this essay is to persuade the reader that people shouldn't watch too much television because a lot of TV programmes are not educational; it wastes time that could be used in more beneficial activities; and it negatively affects people's mental development.
- (2) Firstly, people shouldn't watch too much television because a lot of TV programs are not educational. Nowadays, we can see movies, series, and shows that present scenes of violence and drugs. This has made the audience have a negative behavior. Moreover, violence affects the children badly because they think that problems can only be solved with violence.
- (3) Secondly, people shouldn't watch too much television because it wastes time that could be used in more beneficial activities. The time we spend watching TV could be used in useful activities like exercise, reading and interacting with friends and family.
- (4) Finally, people shouldn't watch too much television because it negatively affects people's mental development. According to several scientific studies, watching TV for long periods of time has a negative effect over the intellectual development of children and affects the mental capacity for the old people.
- (5) In conclusion, people shouldn't watch too much television because a lot of programmes are not educational; it wastes time that could be used in more beneficial activities; and it affects people's mental development. This doesn't mean banning TV. However, we should watch it with moderation.
