VI Reading Comprehension & Summary Making (80 marks)

Read the following passage, and then answer the questions below:

The first Olympic Games was opened in London on July 28, 1948 after World War II. On the same day, 35 miles northwest of London, a very different competition opened. "The Stoke-Mandeville Games for the Paralyzed," held on the grounds of a hospital that treated injured war veterans, offered 16 people – 14 men and 2 women – competing in one sport, archery.

The games were the brainchild of Dr. Ludwig Guttmann, head of the Stoke-Mandeville Hospital's Spinal Injuries Unit. Guttmann had realized that the compulsory bed rest without movement of the patients in spinal injury cases hurt them. He experimented with moving the patients and was encouraged by the results. He began programmes to strengthen the patients with simple games of ball, then wheelchair polo and basketball, darts, and archery. Patients lived and thrived, and the idea of competitive sports for people with physical disabilities took hold.

The symbol of the Paralympic Games is composed of three "agitos", coloured red, blue, and green, encircling a single point, on a white field. The agito ("I move" in Latin) is a symbol of movement in the shape of a symmetrical crescent. The colours of the agitos with the white background stand for the three colours that are most widely represented in national flags around the world. The three agitos encircle a center point, to emphasize the role that the International Paralympic Committee (IPC) has of bringing athletes from all corners of the world together and enabling them to compete". The shape also symbolizes the Paralympic vision "To Enable Paralympic Athletes to Achieve Sporting Excellence and to Inspire and Excite the World".

The first Summer Games of the modern Paralympic era were held in Seoul, South Korea, in 1988. 100,000 attended the Opening Ceremonies .The first Winter Games to take place in Olympic venues were held in 1992, in France. Since then, both Winter and Summer Paralympic Games have taken place exactly two weeks after the Olympic Games.

VII. Summary making (60Marks)

In FOUR sentences, summarise and paraphrase the following passage in an answer to the following question:

In four sentences of your own, summarize the passage below in answer to the following question. (4 x 15 = 60 Marks)

"What are the benefits of trees in keeping the ecological balance ?"

The environment should not be sacrificed in the name of development. This is especially so in forest reserve areas where logging is strictly prohibited. No one has the right to cut down the trees there. As we know, deforestation causes irreversible ecological damage that will lead to soil pollution. It hastens soil erosion which in turn affects water quality. Trees are therefore important for the protection of water catchment, carbon balance , photosynthesis and production of wood. Forest reserves protected by law, are strictly prohibited from logging. The trees protect the catchment areas and maintain the ecological balance. Any trees felled in the reserves will cause soil erosion and affect the quantity and quality of water, raising the cost of water treatment..
