VI Reading Comprehension & Summary Making (110 marks)

Read the following passage, and then answer the questions below:

Diwaniya is an important aspect of Kuwaiti culture and traditions, forming an integral part of men's social lives. Before the spread of the café trend, Kuwaitis gathered at the Diwaniya to discuss different issues, especially politics. They are sometimes referred to as mini-parliaments. Diwaniya is a public place where guests are received, friends and relatives get together. Diwaniyas play an important role in the social, political and economic life of Kuwait.

The Diwaniya in Kuwait has been existed since a long time. It was a male domain and no women were welcomed or allowed to visit it for any reason. That is all history now. The Diwaniya is no longer limited for males only. A new trend emerged a few years ago with mixed diwaniyas. But these were few and for highly intellectual figures to discuss specific matters of interests to them.

Nevertheless, several diwaniyas now welcome and appreciate visits of women activists and female parliament candidates to talk and discuss national issues or even host foreign guests, bearing in mind that we have many female diplomats who visit diwaniyas for social events.

Diwaniya in Kuwait has preserved its importance in the social, political and economic life. Today, Diwaniya is considered of the important social institutes that play an influential role in the democratic and parliamentary life. It became a referential indicator and place where many decisions were made. The number of the diwaniyas increased to the extent that you can find Diwaniya in every house. Some of them open every day some others receive guests once a week yet, others to receive guests for only one or two days per week, and others receive guests only on special occasions.

The general atmosphere of diwaniyas became similar to that of social clubs, cultural and literary forums and political salons. Some of these modern diwaniyas are equipped with television sets, radios, satellite dishes, computers and phones. Other diwaniyas set themselves goals to achieve, like sports, economy, politics. They plan schedules and set dates to reach their goals. Others declare topics for discussion days before receiving guests. The funniest innovation in Diwaniya is the women's diwaniyas. These diwaniyas receive male guests who share their interests and activities.

VII. Summary making (60Marks)

In FOUR sentences, summarise and paraphrase the following passage in an answer to the following question:

In a paragraph of FOUR sentences ONLY, summarise and paraphrase the previous passage in answer to the following question: (4x15= 60 Marks)

“What are the dangers of playing video games on children?”

In fact, children would sometimes skip meals and family outings just to spend time in front of the computers playing these games. The dangers of such games are many. For one, when children spend hours in front of the computer screens, nothing else matters. They lose interest in their studies. What becomes a priority, is their game. They become addicted to the games and will become agitated if they do not get their daily 'fix'. Moreover, when children spend so much time alone in their little virtual world, they have no interest in socializing with other children. This will lead to antisocial behavior. These games are expensive too. An original copy of the Counter Strike game children these days are so fond of, can easily cost a hundred dollars at least. Nevertheless, they are willing to spend their entire allowance on just one game.
