VI Reading Comprehension & Summary Making (80 marks)

Read the following passage, and then answer the questions below:

Many conflicts of this world are believed to be the result of misunderstandings. But where better to begin the process of understanding than in the well springs of communication - of language, of speech? Unless we understand what another is saying, how can we approach even the fingers of consensus? Even where people speak the same language, many difficulties of semantics still often arise. How much more than in the case of people ruled by fears and suspicions of other people who speak in a strange tongue?

Each language has grown out of the deep cultural separations of a people. By understanding the language we begin to understand how they think, and more significantly how they feel. Out of such understanding will come a greater measure of mutual respect, and out of this respect greater love, and out of such love, and such love alone, will come a lasting peace.

There are many occasions in the modern world which provides opportunities for encouraging greater contact with foreigners. In the past, when travel was extremely hazardous and nearly impossible, people hardly ever heard another language spoken. In this age of jet transport and highly organized tourism, it is impossible not to hear several languages regularly. Movements of people in search of employment across the globe, for short and long terms, expose themselves and their families to quite diverse ethnic groups and cultures. They thus absorb quite naturally at least some of the basic elements of speech in those countries.

The United Nations - an international organization of countries created after the Second World War - and its countless service organizations have done unlimited good in bringing together nations of the world. It has worked hard to spread peace and security in the world after the Second World War and that Countries should be friendly to each other. Also it calls all countries to help each other solve problems and Human rights should be respected everywhere in the world away from the unjust or prejudicial treatment of different categories of people or things, especially on the grounds of race, age or religion.

VII. Summary making (60Marks)

In FOUR sentences, summarise and paraphrase the following passage in an answer to the following question: (4 X 15= 60 Ms)

In four sentences of your own, summarize the passage below in answer to the following question.

"Why is the tiger becoming extinct?"

To see a tiger in the wild these days is becoming near impossible. They are becoming extinct. One of the major reasons why the tiger is losing the battle to stay alive is because of the belief that the tiger is a valuable medicinal source. People in Asia especially, believe that every single part of the tiger holds medicinal properties. For example, they believe that the eye of the tiger can improve our vision. Although tigers are strong, fierce animals, they cannot challenge the might of the weapons used by the hunters which are too powerful and fast. Park rangers stand by unable to do much against the hunters. Moreover, there are too few rangers to patrol the large areas of land.
