VI Reading Comprehension & Summary Making (80 marks)

Read the following passage, and then answer the questions below:

For years video games have been criticized for making people more anti-social and overweight. They considered it one of the main causes of depression. But now researchers are finding that games can actually change us for the better and improve both our body and mind.

Games can help to develop physical skills. Pre-school children who played interactive games such as the ones available on WII have been shown to have improved motor skills, for example they can kick, catch and throw a ball better than children who don't play video games.

Games also benefit a variety of brain functions, including decision-making. People who played action-based games make decision twenty five percent faster than others and are no less accurate, according to one study. It was also found that the best gamers can make choices and act on them up to six times a second, four times faster than most people. In another study it was found that, experienced gamers were shown to be able to pay attention to more than six things at once without getting confused, compared with the four that most people can normally keep in mind. Additionally, there is also evidence that gaming can help with psychological problems and in many cases, the game removed the symptoms of depression more than conventional treatment.

The effects are not always so positive, however. Indiana university researchers carried out brain scans on young men and found evidence that violent games can alter brain function after as little as a week of play, affecting regions in the brain associated with emotional control and causing more aggressive behaviour in the player. But Daphne Bavelier, one of the most experienced researchers in the field, says that violent action games that often worry parents most may actually have the strongest beneficial effect on the brain. In the future, we may see many treatments for physical and neurological problems which incorporate the playing of video games.

VII. Summary making (60Marks)

In FOUR sentences, summarise and paraphrase the following passage in an answer to the following question: (4 x1 5 = 60 Marks)

“How is medicine improved nowadays?”

There is a great advance in the field of medicine, nowadays. For example, X-rays enable doctors to see inside our bodied .so, they became able to describe the illness and describe the right cure. Modernized medical equipment helped those doctors to do operations that were impossible few years ago. For example, they can now replace damaged hearts, lungs and other organs. Really doctors are working day and night for the sake of humanity. They have declared war against fatal diseases such as bird flu and cancer. Different countries spend huge amounts of money on medical research to produce new and effective drugs. We have to believe that health is better than wealth.
