

Parents play the most important role in the overall development of their children. Parents are the right guidance that develops the character of the children. Parenting is an ongoing job almost lasts forever. As children need their parents from time to time to stay in the right track. We should mention that every successful child in life is due to his honest and responsible parents. Forming a good family in society is a great responsibility requires great of love and kind efforts to gain the fruits later. Parents always provide their children with support, warmth and true love to strengthen the emotional links between them and their children in a healthy atmosphere of care and love. Parents play a main social role in life of their children through the interaction inside the family and how arguments are settled in front of them. This interaction teaching them good values in their feelings and minds as well as a developing the team spirit and picking the right friends. Also, parents play a main role in providing their children with the Physical development like how to healthy, exercising regularly, being a famous player, and having the right diet to keep their bodies fit. Smart parents' styles learn their children creativity, accepting failure, understanding discipline and the award –and punishment concept to keep their brains healthy. In addition to, the spiritual development parents always encourage children to understanding religion, prayer to understand the concept of the heavenly books.

In contrast, there are many ways for children to show their gratefulness towards their parents to be kind towards them. Considering their point of views in life, as they practise different situations in life. Be grateful to all what they have done. Sharing good news and achievements with them. Sharing good news and achievements with them. Asking them for advice is one of the happiest matters in the life. Giving them your full attention. Showing them great respect. Calming them down when they are angry. Really parents are a priceless present from God.