There is no doubt that there is a massive change between life in the past and nowadays in Kuwait. The work, daily activities, food, communication and entertainment changed dramatically.

In the past, life was very simple but hard. People used to work in fishing, pearl diving and ship industry. They used to eat meat, fish, vegetables and lived in simple houses. They used camels and horses for transportation. They also used letter for communication. People spent their free time visiting each other or telling stories. There were no schools. Children used to play simple games such as; Ambar, Dawama and Al-Khabseh.

On the other hand, modern technology led to many changes which made life in Kuwait much easier. People now can work in many different jobs. They work as doctors, engineers, ministers and many other important jobs. They live in modern villas with magnificent imported furniture. They can enjoy international cuisine in different restaurants.

Moreover, they can spend their free time going to the gym, playing different sports, enjoying their hobbies or even watching films in cinemas and hanging out in malls. Nowadays, people can communicate easily using mobiles and the internet.

Children are well-educated as education in schools evolved, they learn many subjects and different languages. They spend their free time playing video games, surfing the net or competing with each other in computer games or Playstation.

In conclusion, life in Kuwait nowadays is better than in the past. Modern technology has provided and developed many facilities that people benefit from to live a comfortable life.
