READING COMPREHENSION

William Henry Gates (Bill) was born on October 28, 1955. Bill was the second of three children. Bill became bored in public school, so his family sent him to Lakeside School, a private school that was developed in 1919 by Frank G. Moran, where he excelled in Math and Science. He also studied English, Arts and History. He also participated in one week of Outdoor Education before graduation. Gates' two eldest children, 21-year-old Jennifer and 18-year-old Rory, have both graduated from Lakeside and 16-year-old Phoebe is currently enrolled there.

Gates became interested in computer programming when he was 13 and wrote a tic-tac-toe programme using BASIC; one of the first computer languages. At Lakeside, Bill met Paul Allen, who shared his interest in computers. They were allowed in the computer lab. At age 17, Gates and Allen were paid $20,000 for a programme called Traf-O-Data that was used to count traffic.

In early 1973, Bill Gates was accepted by Harvard University. Meanwhile, Paul Allen dropped out of Washington College to work on computers at Honeywell Corporation and convinced Gates to drop out of Harvard and join him in starting a new software company in New Mexico. They called it Microsoft, then they moved their company to Washington. In 1980, IBM, one of the largest technology companies, asked Microsoft to write software to run their new personal computer. Microsoft kept the licensing rights for the operating system (MS-DOS) so that they earned money for every computer sold. Microsoft grew quickly from 25 employees in 1978 to over 90,000 today. Over the years, Microsoft developed many new technologies and some of the world's most popular software and products such as Word and PowerPoint. Bill built Microsoft into one of the largest companies in the world.

In 2012, his $61 billion dollars in assets made him the world's second richest man. In 2006, Gates announced that he would cut back his involvement at Microsoft to spend more time on charity. The Bill Gates Foundation supports many causes including the quest to eradicate Polio, fighting AIDS, and malaria; providing vaccinations for children; and their basic needs.

READING COMPREHENSION 2

For many people who live in cities, parks are an important part of the landscape. They provide a place for people to relax and play sports. What people often overlook is that parks also provide considerable environmental benefits.

One benefit of parks is that plants absorb carbon dioxide and give oxygen, which humans need to breathe. According to one study, an acre of trees can absorb the same amount of carbon dioxide that a typical car emits in 11,000 miles of driving. Parks also make cities cooler. Scientists have long noted what is called the Urban Heat Island Effect: building materials such as metal, concrete, and asphalt absorb much more of the sun's heat and release it much more quickly than organic surfaces like trees and grass. Parks and other green spaces help to minimise the Urban Heat Island Effect.

Unfortunately, many cities cannot easily create more parks because most land is already being used for buildings, roads, parking lots, and other essential parts of the urban environment. However, cities could benefit from many of the positive effects of parks by encouraging citizens to create another type of green space: rooftop gardens. While most people would not think of starting a garden on their roof, human beings have been planting gardens on rooftops for thousands of years. Some rooftop gardens are very complex and require special engineering, but others are simple container gardens that anyone can create with the investment of a few hundred dollars and a few hours of work.

Rooftop gardens provide many of the same benefits as other urban park and garden spaces, but without taking up the much-needed land. Like parks, rooftop gardens help to replace carbon dioxide in the air with nourishing oxygen. They also help to lessen the Urban Heat Island Effect, which can save money. In summer, rooftop gardens prevent buildings from absorbing heat from the sun, which can significantly reduce cooling bills. Rooftop vegetables and herb gardens can also provide fresh food for people, save their money and make their diets healthier. Rooftop gardens are not only something everyone can enjoy, they are also a smart environmental investment.

Read the following passage carefully , then answer the questions that follow:

Everyone has a favourite attraction at an amusement park, and I am no different. However, unlike most people who seem to prefer rollercoasters, my favourite ride is a little more gentle. Every time I go to Coney Island, Navy Pier, or the Santa Monica Pier, I absolutely have to ride the Ferris wheel. The Ferris wheel is simple and yet also quite complex. That is, riding it is easy, but how it works is complicated. A series of carts are attached to a wheel, which is attached to a rim. That rim rotates vertically around an axis, and gravity keeps the carts upright. As simple as the ride seems, only advanced engineers can make safe and fun Ferris wheels.

While the Ferris wheel is not as thrilling as a rollercoaster, it is still very exciting. The fact of being high in the air makes it so much more entertaining than a lot of rides. Nevertheless, I have to admit, I don't seek Ferris wheels out because of their excitement. Rather, I find them very relaxing. At the top of the Ferris wheel, you get beautiful sights of the park. You also get a sense of calm that you don't get in the hustle and bustle of the park below. Additionally, Ferris wheels are also gorgeous to look at when they are lit up at night. In fact, the original Ferris wheel was designed as much to be seen as to be ridden.

The first Ferris wheel was made by George Washington Gale Ferris. He designed it for the Chicago World's Fair in 1893. It was the tallest attraction there, standing 264 feet high. However, visitors to the fair were impressed by the size of the ride as well as the mechanics of it. Further, as one visitor put it, the wheel was amazing because it seemed to be missing support. That is, it did not look like it could stand on its own. And yet it did and even rotated! Ferris wheel technology has only improved since then. Most of today's Ferris wheels are much larger than that first one. The largest in the world is the "Singapore Flyer," which stands slightly taller than twice what Ferris's did! Today, the Ferris wheel is the most common amusement park ride. But that does not mean you should take them for granted. Instead, be thankful for Ferris' invention. The next time you're at an amusement park, don't just look up at the impressive wheel in the sky on your way to a newer attraction. Take it for a spin!

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions :

The most precious fluid on earth is not oil, but water. There are few challenges as important as conserving the world's usable water and supplying clean drinking water and water for irrigation to those who need it. Yet this work is not getting done. Humans are consuming the earth's store of usable water at a rate that will soon threaten our food supply. Poor water management already kills millions of people a year and condemns hundreds of millions to hunger.

Providing poor areas with drinking water and sanitation, for example, is easy to do and a cost-effective way to prevent deaths and disease. There is now an opportunity for progress. More than 100 water ministers from around the world, along with thousands of water experts from villagers to scientists, have gathered in the Netherlands. The conference will be useful if it can persuade governments and international banks to pay more attention to conservation and fair distribution of water.

In 1980, the U.N. set a goal of safe drinking water for all by 1990. Because of international concern, about two billion new people received clean drinking water over the subsequent 14 years. A new commitment is urgently needed to spread these health gains, help poor farmers and conserve the world's precious supply of usable water.

Most of us have plenty of water for our daily needs, maybe even an excess as is the case in the Netherlands at the moment with heavy rainfalls. Regardless of our seeming abundance of this resource, it is still important to use water carefully. You can save water in your daily life and be an example for others of good water stewardship by washing dishes by hand and not allowing the water to run while rinsing. In addition, try to install an instant water heater near your kitchen sink so you don't have to run the water while it heats up. This also reduces energy costs. Furthermore, by insulating your water pipes, you'll get hot water faster plus you avoid wasting water while it heats up. Finally, when buying new appliances such as a washing machine, consider those that offer cycle and load size adjustments. They're more water and energy efficient.

From a, b, c and d, choose the correct answer:

1- Paragraph "4" is mainly about:

- New brands of washing machines
- New sources of energy
- Different ways to preserve water
- Ways to conserve water and energy

Read the following passage, then answer the questions below:

Pollution has been defined as the addition of any substance or form of energy to the environment at a harmful rate. In simpler terms, pollution means the poisoning of the environment by man. Pollution has accompanied mankind ever since groups of people settled down in one place for a long time. It was not a serious problem during primitive times when there was ample space available for each individual or group.

As the human population boomed, pollution became a major problem and has remained as such ever since. The rapid advancement of technology has brought along with it many undesirable results, one of which is the pollution of our environment. Humanity today is threatened by the dangers of air, water, land and noise pollution. Man has reached the moon and invented supersonic crafts that can travel faster than the speed of sound. However, these inventions emit pollutants which contribute to the reduction of the ozone layer which absorbs the harmful rays of the sun and prevents them from reaching the Earth; this reduction of the ozone layer has drastic effects on all living things. It will lead to a rise in the number of people suffering from skin cancer and other diseases.

Water pollution has become widespread too. Toxic waste has found its way into our lakes, streams, rivers and oceans. This waste is released by factories. The release of oil by tankers during the recent Gulf War has caused massive damage to marine life. Thousands of sea animals have died or were poisoned by the pollutants in their natural habitat. As such, it is dangerous for humans to consume seafood caught in polluted waters.

We are often faced with noises from construction sites, jet planes and traffic jam. We may be unaware of it but noise pollution causes a loss of hearing, mental disturbances and poor performance at work. To control environmental pollution, many actions should be taken such as setting strict rules and regulations. This calls for united decision-making among world leaders and a public awareness of the dangers of pollution.

Reading Comprehension

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below:

Doctors say that there are several kinds of headaches. Each kind begins in a different place and needs different treatment. Some of these headaches start with a change in vision or sight. The person sees wavy lines, black dots, or white spots in front of the eyes. This is a warning that a headache is coming. The headache occurs on only one side of the head. The vision is blurred and the person may vomit from the pain. These headaches are called the migraine headaches. They are more frequent in women than men. Sleep is the best cure for them.

Cluster headaches, which also start in the arteries, are called cluster headaches because they come in clusters or groups. A cluster headache lasts only for two hours and then goes away. At the beginning of the cluster headache, the eyes become red and watery. There is a steady pain in the head. Men have more cluster headaches than women do. The muscle headache, which starts in the muscles in the neck or forehead, is caused by tension. When the person becomes nervous about something, or has problems at work, or at school, or at home, the neck and head muscles become tense and the headache starts. A muscle headache usually starts in the morning and gets worse as the hours pass. There is a steady pain, pressure and a bursting feeling. Usually, aspirin doesn't help a muscle very much.

How do doctors treat headaches? If a person has frequent headaches, the doctor first has to decide what kind they are. Medicine can help, but there are other ways to treat them. The doctor asks the patient to analyze his or her daily living patterns. A change in diet or an increase in exercise might stop the headaches. If the patient realizes that difficulties at home, or at work, or at school are causing the tension, it might be possible to make changes and decrease these problems.

Psychological problems and even medicine for another physical problem can cause headache. The doctor has to discuss and analyse all these patterns of the patient's life. A headache can be also a signal of a more serious problem. So, patients should realize that there is no magic cure for headaches, but doctors can control most of them.

Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow:

From far out in space, the Earth looks like a blue ball. Since water covers three-fourths of the Earth's surface, blue is the colour we see most. The continents look brown, like small islands floating in the huge, blue sea. White clouds wrap around the Earth like a light blanket. The Earth is shaped like a sphere, or a ball. It is 25,000 miles around! It would take more than a year to walk around the whole planet. A spaceship can fly around the widest part of the sphere in only 90 minutes.

The Sun is the closest star to Earth. A star is a hot ball of burning gas. The Sun looks very big because it is so close. But the Sun is just a medium-sized star. Billions of far-away stars are much bigger than our Sun. The burning gases from the Sun are so hot that they warm the Earth from 93 million miles away! Even though the Sun is always glowing, the night here on Earth is dark. That's because the Earth rotates every 24 hours. During the day, the Earth faces the Sun. Then we see light. During the night, the Earth turns away from the Sun. Then it faces the darkness of space.

Although spaceships have travelled to the Moon, people cannot visit the Moon without special suits. The Moon has no air or water so plants and animals can't live there. Astronauts first landed on the Moon in 1969. They brought back Moon rocks, which scientists are still studying. There are holes all over the Moon's surface. Scientists believe that huge pieces of rocks crashed into the Moon millions of years ago and formed the holes.

The Sun warms our planet, and with the Moon, creates the tides in seas and oceans. The Moon orbits the Earth and in turn, the Earth orbits the Sun. The Sun, the Earth and the Moon appear to be the same size in the sky. When the Moon is directly in between the Earth and the Sun, it blocks the sun or a part of it. This is called "solar eclipse."

Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow:

Although not the longest river in America, the Rio Grande is one of the most important. But, unlike other significant rivers, it is not used for shipping. In fact, oceangoing ships cannot navigate its water. No, what makes the Rio Grande so important is its location. Since, eighteen hundred forty six it has been the official border of Texas and Mexico.

The Rio Grande is either the fourth or fifth longest river system in North America. It all depends on how it is measured. Because the river twists so much, it occasionally changes course. And these course shifts can cause it to be longer or shorter. At its last official measure, the Rio Grande recorded one thousand eight hundred and ninety six miles. The river starts in Colorado and extends downward to the Gulf of Mexico. Downward is the best way of describing it too. Not only does the river extend south, but it also starts in the mountains and gets lower and lower as it extends to the Gulf. Its name is Spanish for the “Big River,” but the Rio Grande is actually known as Rio Bravo in Mexico. “Bravo” translates as “furious,” so the name makes sense. Because of its twists and turns, it certainly does seem to be angrier than most rivers!

The Rio Grande today is mostly used as a source of drinking water. Sadly, much of the water has been drained from the river. Parts of the river are almost dry! This is because people use more water from the river than the river can get back from rain and other sources. Experts are working to correct this, though, with hopes of restoring the river to its past strength. Today, the river is important as a source of water for people of Texas and Mexico. More important, it is a symbol of cooperation between two nations. Though borders like the Rio Grande separate nations, they are also shared spaces. The Rio Grande is therefore a symbol of friendship and peace between two peoples. Many charities are organized every year in the two countries to raise people awareness about the river.

Clarence Lundberg thought he would never stop smoking. After all, wouldn't quitting smoking after 45 years be impossible? Clarence started smoking when he was only 12 years old and got used to waking up in the morning and starting his day with a cup of coffee and a cigarette.

So why did Clarence decide to take the big step toward quitting tobacco? "It all started in 2019, when I went to the doctor for a regular check-up. I was lucky to be asked if I wanted to take part in a lung test program, and this is when I was diagnosed with a chronic disease," he said. "I was concerned when the research doctor told me I could continue to keep smoking, but I would need an oxygen tank next to the bed in a year or two. That's something my wife, would definitely not find amusing." Clarence is a success story. Through the Smoking Cessation Program, which encourages people to quit the bad habit, he has now been smoke-free for over a year and a half. And I did quit, but I realized I needed more support and help when I failed and went back to smoking again. Read the following passage and answer the questions:

How many things can you see in the night sky? On a clear night you might see the Moon, some planets and thousands of sparkling stars. You can see even more with a telescope. You might see stars where before you only saw dark space. With bigger and better telescopes, you can see more and more objects in the sky. And you can see those objects in more and more detail.

But scientists believe that there are some things in the sky that we will never see even with the biggest telescope in the world. That is because they are invisible and mysterious. They are dead stars which are called black holes. You might find it hard to imagine that stars die. After all, our Sun is a star. Year after year we see it up in the sky, burning brightly, giving us heat and light. The Sun certainly doesn't seem to be getting old or weak. But stars do burn out and die after billions of years.

As a star's gases burn, they give off light and heat. But when the gas runs out, the star stops burning and begins to die. As the star cools, the outer layers of the star pull in toward the center. The star squashes into a smaller and smaller ball. If the star is very small, it ends up as a cold, dark ball called a black dwarf. If the star is very big, it becomes lesser and lesser until it's packed together tighter than anything else in the universe.

Imagine if the Earth were crushed until it was the size of a tiny marble. That's how tightly this dead star, a black hole, is packed. What pulls the star in toward its center with such power? It's the same force that pulls you down when you jump – the force called gravity. A black hole is so tightly packed that its gravity sucks in everything, even light. The light from a black hole can never come back to your eyes. That's why you see nothing but blackness. So the next time you stare up at the night sky, remember: There's more in the sky than meets the eye!

What are the dangers of playing video games on children?

In fact, children would sometimes skip meals and family outings just to spend time in front of the computers playing these games. The dangers of such games are many. For one, <sup>1</sup> when children spend hours in front of the computer screens, nothing else matters. They lose interest in their studies. <sup>2</sup> What becomes a priority, is their game. They become addicted to the games and will become agitated if they do not get their daily 'fix'. <sup>3</sup> Moreover, when children spend so much time alone in their little virtual world, they have no interest in socializing with other children. <sup>4</sup> This will lead to antisocial behavior. These games are expensive too. An original copy of the Counter Strike game children these days are so fond of, can easily cost a hundred dollars at least. Nevertheless, they are willing to spend their entire allowance on just one game.

Travel can expand our mind and promote inter-cultural understanding. However, it can also have a destructive environmental impact on Earth. "Green Travel" is a term that refers to responsible travel practices that pay attention to the environment. To travel green, your efforts can start even before leaving home. For example, turning off electronics saves on the electricity bill and cuts down on energy usage. While on holiday, you can use community transport when available rather than renting a car. If you are staying in a hotel for several nights, reuse towels instead of having them washed and changed daily. Finally, always buy food from local people to support the local market. Making these few simple switches to how you travel will make a big difference to the environment.

-VI READING COMPREHENSION (110 Marks)

- Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below:

It is easy to make a delicious-looking hamburger at home. But would this hamburger still look delicious after it sat on your kitchen table under very bright lights for six or seven hours? If someone took a picture or made a video of this hamburger after the seventh hour, would anyone want to eat it? More importantly, do you think you could get millions of people to pay money for this hamburger?

These are the questions that fast-food companies worry about when they produce commercials or print ads for their products. Video and photo shoots often last many hours. The lights that the photographers use can be extremely hot. These conditions can cause the food to look quite unappealing to potential consumers. Because of this, the menu items that you see in fast food commercials are probably not actually edible.

Let's use the hamburger as an example. The first step towards building the perfect commercial hamburger is the bun. The food stylist—a person employed by the company to make sure the products look perfect—sorts through hundreds of buns until he or she finds one with no wrinkles. Next, the stylist carefully rearranges the sesame seeds on the bun using glue and tweezers for maximum visual appeal. The bun is then sprayed with a waterproofing solution so that it will not get soggy from contact with other ingredients, the lights, or the humidity in the room. Next, the food stylist shapes a meat patty into a perfect circle. Only the outside of the meat gets cooked—the inside is left raw so that the meat remains moist. The food stylist then paints the outside of the meat patty with a mixture of oil, molasses, and brown food coloring. Grill marks are either painted on or seared into the meat using hot metal skewers. Finally, the food stylist searches through dozens of tomatoes and heads of lettuce to find the best-looking produce. One leaf of the crispest lettuce and one center slice of the reddest tomato are selected and then sprayed with glycerin to keep them looking fresh.

So, the next time you see a delectable hamburger in a fast-food commercial, remember: you're actually looking at glue, paint, raw meat, and glycerin! Are you still hungry?

VII - SUMMARY MAKING (60 Marks)

- Read the following passage, then do as required:

In fact, children would sometimes skip meals and family outings just to spend time in front of the computers playing these games. The dangers of such games are many. For one, when children spend hours in front of the computer screens, nothing else matters. They lose interest in their studies. What becomes a priority, is their game. They become addicted to the games and will become agitated if they do not get their daily 'fix'. Moreover, when children spend so much time alone in their little virtual world, they have no interest in socializing with other children. This will lead to antisocial behavior. These games are expensive too. An original copy of the Counter Strike game children these days are so fond of, can easily cost a hundred dollars at least. Nevertheless, they are willing to spend their entire allowance on just one game.

In a paragraph of FOUR sentences ONLY, summarize and paraphrase the passage above in answer to the following question:

City life and village life

Would you prefer to live in the city or in the country? A lot of people decide to move to the countryside nowadays. However, there are still many people who prefer staying in the town and say that they couldn't live anywhere else. So which place is better to live?

Living in such a big city has a lot of advantages. There is a big offer how to spend free time. There are many ways of entertainment. There is always a lot to do and visit! There are a lot of shopping centres where you can buy whatever you want. What is more, there are a lot of working places in a city, so it is much easier to find a job in a big city. On the other hand, there are some disadvantages of living in a big city. Cities are very crowded. Everywhere there are crowds: on the pavements and in the buses. What is more, the traffic is heavy and city's car parks are always very full. Moreover, there are big crime rates in cities. So, you have to be very careful at nights when you leave your home.

Life in the countryside is more peaceful and slower. There aren't so many people, and they usually know each other well so the crimes rates are very low. What is more, it is less stressful. There isn't any time pressure, and the traffic conditions are better. Besides, in the countryside there are a lot of breathtaking views. People in the countryside are quite different than people living in the city: they are relaxed and friendly. People in the city are like ants. They are always in hurry, busy and out of time. In the country people enjoy their lives and take pleasure in their daily activities. As a disadvantage of living in the countryside, people who stay there don't get high salaries. Moreover, there aren't enough entertainment places to enjoy their time in.

To sum up, I would like to say that both countryside and city have some advantages and disadvantages. Both city and country may be a good place to live. I think that everyone of us will take into consideration all aspects before he decides to move to the country.

Leisure Activities In The Past And Nowadays

How has the way people spend their free time changed over the years? The activities that people used to do in the past are very different from the leisure ones in the present, although some of them haven't changed.

In the past, people spent more time out of their homes because they didn't have so many videogames, computers and televisions as we have now. Old people used to meet in diwaniyas. They used to play cards or have chats about many issues. Some of them used to practice some handcrafts like making Sadu or making boats. Furthermore, some people used to go fishing and pearl diving. Children used to play simple games in groups like Dawama, amber and Khabsa. Moreover, some people used to visit their relatives and spent their time telling stories to the young children.

Nowadays, we are too dependent on technologies to communicate with others. People can spend their free time watching televisions or surfing the internet. Besides, many young people kill their time by using social media like Facebook, Instagram and Twitter. Many teenagers spend their leisure time playing computer games. As for women and young girls, some of them prefer going shopping or going to the cinema.

To sum up, I think that leisure activities may have changed from the past to the present days, but, in my opinion, we all can spend our free time the way we like without forgetting that there's always something interesting and new to experience and to enjoy.

Extreme Sports

Have you ever thought of doing an extreme sport? Extreme sports can be thrilling and exciting, and when done with precautions, you could have a great time challenging yourself.

Many people who are looking for a little excitement are drawn to the thrill of doing extreme sports. Many people push themselves to extreme limits for many reasons. First, some young people seek fame and eager to be well-known worldwide. Moreover, some of them, tend to practice these sports to feel superior and to overcome their fears. Furthermore, breaking world records and gaining much money could be reasonable reasons for them. In addition, some young people claim that they push their limits to prove their abilities and to be the centre of attention.

These activities are hazardous and risky. Extreme athletes put their lives in danger by doing such sports. Even when all the safety precautions are taken, plenty of things can go horribly wrong. These athletes may be exposed to serious injuries. Many even die trying and performing these feats. For example, mountaineers may face bad weather conditions as extreme cold and frostbite. They even may lose their contact with the world. Some of them get lost or face natural disasters like avalanches. They may experience extreme exhaustion and sickness.

To sum up, based on all the facts mentioned above, I think that practicing extreme sports is a healthy activity, but only if you remain extremely careful. Also, those activities must be done within reasonable limits, and you shouldn't get too fond of them.

Space Exploration

Do you think there is another life outside our planet Earth? Scientists are developing more and more modern machines to know more about the outer space. They do their best to understand the world around us and provide people with knowledge about space.

There are a lot of examples of the effect of space technology on human lives on the Earth. The first example is the Aircraft Technology. Space Technology has made aircraft lighter, faster and more economical. The plane engines have become quieter and have lowered fuel consumption and emissions. The second example is the Wireless technology. The wireless technology was first developed to solve the communication problems between the Earth and space. Because of space technology it is now used in medicine to monitor heart activity. There are a lot of benefits we could get from space technology such as Satellite Television, Weather forecasting, GPS systems, Mobile phones, Air-Conditioning Units, etc. All these inventions are called "spin-offs.". As a matter of fact, investments into space exploration create real economic benefits on earth. It gives us more information about our solar system, galaxy, and universe.

Living in space is not the same as living on Earth. Many things are different. Our bodies change in space. The way we stay clean and neat is different too. In space, astronauts float. They do not use their legs much. Their lower backs begin to lose strength. Their leg muscles do too. The bones begin to get weak and thin. So, they must exercise in space every day. Astronauts have to get rid of their garbage. Imagine going camping for more than a week with several of your close friends. You would make sure you have plenty of food and the gear to cook and eat it with. The food would have to be stored properly. Astronauts basically do the same thing when they go to space. There are no refrigerators in space, so space food must be stored and prepared properly to avoid spoilage, especially on longer missions.

To sum up, I think space exploration has many benefits for humans on Earth. Besides, being an astronaut is not an easy job. It is so risky and it requires special qualifications.

Space Exploration

Do you think there is another life outside our planet Earth? Some people are for space explorations, while others are against the idea. Each group has its own reasonable claims.

Some people are for space exploration. They claim that it has many disadvantages and benefit humanity so much. The first example is the Aircraft Technology. Space Technology has made aircraft lighter, faster and more economical. The plane engines have become quieter and have lowered fuel consumption and emissions. The second example is the Wireless technology. The wireless technology was first developed to solve the communication problems between the Earth and space. As a matter of fact, investments into space exploration create real economic benefits on earth. It gives us more information about our solar system, galaxy, and universe.

On the other hand, there are some people who are against that. They opine that it is a waste of time, money and effort. Our world is suffering from war, famine, and poverty; billions of people are struggling simply to live from day to day. Our dreams of exploring space are a luxury they cannot afford. Instead of wasting our time and effort on space explorations, we must set ourselves new targets. Moreover, astronauts face many health problems. Astronauts float, they do not use their legs much. Their lower backs begin to lose strength. Their leg muscles do too. Their bones begin to get weak and thin. In addition, astronauts face many psychological drawbacks due to being away from their families and friends for so long. Furthermore, the space shuttles itself may explode and astronauts lose their lives.

To sum up, I think we must help people in poor countries and solve our environmental problems. We should reasonably spend money, but we must not give up discovering space because investments into space exploration create real economic benefits on earth.
