VI. Reading Comprehension (80 marks)

Read the following passage carefully, and then answer the questions below:

It's not unusual for young people to experience "the blues" or feel "down in the dumps" occasionally. Adolescence is always an unsettling time, with the many physical, emotional psychological and social changes that accompany this stage of life.

Adolescent depression is increasing at an alarming rate. Recent surveys indicate that as many as one in five teens suffer from clinical depression. This is a serious problem that calls for prompt, appropriate treatment. Depression can take several forms, including bipolar disorder (formally called manic-depression), which is a condition that alternates between periods of euphoria and depression.

Depression can be difficult to diagnose in teens because adults may expect teens to act moody. Also, adolescents do not always understand or express their feelings very well. They may not be aware of the symptoms of depression and may not seek help. The symptoms that indicate depression, particularly when they last for more than two weeks, include: poor performance in school, withdrawal from friends and activities, sadness and hopelessness, anger and rage, overreaction to criticism, lack of enthusiasm, energy or motivation and suicidal thoughts or actions.

Depression is serious and, if left untreated, can worsen to the point of becoming life-threatening. If depressed teens refuse treatment, it may be necessary for family members or other concerned adults to seek professional advice. Therapy can help teens understand why they are depressed and learn how to cope with stressful situations. Depending on the solution, treatment may consist of individual, group or family counseling. Medications that can be prescribed by a psychiatrist may be necessary to help teens feel better.

When adolescents are depressed, they have a tough time believing that their outlook can improve. But professional treatment can have a dramatic impact on their lives. It can put them back on track and bring them hope for the future.

VII. Summary Making (60 marks)

In FOUR sentences, summarize and paraphrase the following passage in an answer to the following question: (4× 15 = 60 marks)

What are the best time management tips for achieving your goals?

One of the most effective skills you can have in life is powerful and effective time management. If you don't set your goals the right way, then you will lack the proper targets, which will force you to fall of the track. Another great time management tip is to use the 80-20 Rule. This rule states that 80% of the efforts comes from 20% of the results. In addition, use your time wisely by eliminating your bad habits if you are serious about achieving big goals in life. One of the biggest time-wasters we have are our bad habits. Finally, take frequent breaks when working to keep your mental, emotional and physical states at peak levels.

The students' answers should include:

Setting goals the right way to achieve proper targets. Using the 80-20 rule. Using time wisely by eliminating bad habits. Taking frequent breaks when working.
