VI- Reading Comprehension ( 14Marks )

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below

A camel is well suited to its life in the desert. It is one of the few animals which can go without water for long periods of time . Exactly how long depends on many reasons: the temperature, the kind of work the camel is doing, and the food it is eating. A camel in the hot desert, for example, needs water every 8-10 days, but in cooler weather, it can go for much longer periods without water.

The availability of plants for the camel to eat is also a reason, since some have more water in them than others. There are several reasons camels can go for so long without drinking. Compared to other animals, and people too, camels lose very little water from sweating. Camels can get much hotter than other animals before their bodies start losing water. Their temperature go up and down a range of 11 degrees Fahrenheit without endangering the animal's health. That's why the camel is called the ship of the desert.
