B- Reading Comprehension (16 Marks)

Read the following passage carefully , then answer the questions below:

In the early 1900's, the world was developing at a very fast speed, so cities became more crowded. Furthermore, with the invention of cars, the traffic on the roads increased a lot, so there was a need for a better traffic system. In 1912, an American policeman, Lester Wire, who was concerned with the increasing traffic, came up with the idea of the first electric traffic light.

The first electric traffic light had only red and green lights; it did not have a yellow light like modern-day traffic signals. Instead of a yellow light, it had a bell sound that was used to show that the signal would be changing soon. In the year 1920, a policeman named William Potts in Detroit, Michigan invented the first four-way and three-coloured traffic lights. Apart from red and green, a third colour – was introduced. It was the yellow one. Detroit became the first city to apply the four-way and three-coloured traffic lights.

At present, traffic all over the world can be observed and the lights can also be adjusted in the case of difficulties or dangers by computers . Computers have very much improved the handling of traffic . They increased total road safety.
