Part 1

Life in Ancient Rome

Life in ancient Rome was crowded and busy. Most people lived in apartment buildings, in noisy streets, but rich people lived in big beautiful homes

The Romans wore tunics which were like very long T-shirts. Roman boys wore a tunic down to their knees. Roman girls wore a simple tunic with a belt. When they went outside, they wore open shoes called sandals

Farmers in the countryside grew vegetables and other food. In the city there were men who made dishes, jewellery and weapons. Some Romans were teachers or engineers. Many men were soldiers in the Roman Army

What did the Romans eat? They often ate bread, beans, fish, dried fruit, vegetables and cheese. Most Romans didn't eat a lot of meat, but they did eat mice and snails

To have fun, the Romans liked chariot racing and watching shows in special buildings like the Colosseum. They also loved bathing and usually visited the local public baths once a day.

The Amazing Amazon

Hi, I'm Alia. Last month I went on holiday to South America. I spent five days in the Amazon Rainforest, where I saw many creatures and learned all about them.

The first night was a bit scary because there were many strange noises and it was very dark.

On the third day of the trip we walked for four hours looking for jaguars. These big cats are my favourite animal, but they are nocturnal and difficult to see in the daytime.

We saw many strange insects. I believe there are over a thousand different types of bugs and bees living in the Amazon Rainforest. Unfortunately, we didn't see any jaguars, but we learned a lot about all the different animals.

I know that the trees in the Amazon make oxygen, which people and animals need to stay alive. Many scientists think that if they disappear, there will not be enough oxygen for people to live. So, we must save the Amazon

Luxembourg is a small country in Europe that people don't visit so much. Three countries are next to it. They are Belgium, France and Germany. It is the smallest of these countries. People in Luxembourg speak four languages. It .has a population of only 600,000

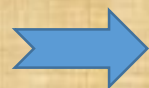

The country has many forests and some nature parks. If you are hiking in the forests you might see bears, snakes and golden eagles. You won't see these creatures in the busy streets, but you could visit the zoo. You will see these .animals there for sure

People like to visit the beautiful rivers too. On the river, people can water ski and ride on the boats. Swimming is not popular because it is dangerous swimming near to the .boats

Luxembourg City is the capital and it is very old. The ancient Romans lived here, and archaeologists have discovered public baths and villas. It is interesting to visit .the museum to learn more about this ancient civilisation
