Earth's Temperatures

The world is now warmer than at almost any time since the end of the last ice age and, on present trends, will continue to reach a record high for the entire period since the dawn of civilisation, a study has found.

The study published in the journal Science, aims to give a global overview of Earth's temperatures over the past 11,300 years - a relatively balmy period known as the Holocene that began after the last major ice age ended and encompasses all of recorded human civilization.

Their data (compiled by studying such things as ice cores, fossils and ocean sediment) looked back over a much longer era than previous research, which went back 1,500 years.

Scientists say it is further evidence that modern-day global warming isn't natural, but the result of rising carbon dioxide emissions that have rapidly grown since the Industrial Revolution began roughly 250 years ago. Scientists say that if natural factors were still governing the climate, the Northern Hemisphere would probably be destined to freeze over again in several thousand years. Instead, scientists believe the enormous increase in greenhouse gases caused by industrialization will almost certainly prevent that.

Shaun Marcott, a geologist at Oregon State University, says "global temperatures are warmer than about 75 percent of anything we've seen over the last 11,000 years or so." The other way to look at that is, 25 percent of the time since the last ice age, it's been warmer than now.

It's taken just 100 years for the average temperature to change by 1.3 degrees, when it took 5,000 years to do that before. By the end of the century, climate warming models predict an additional increase of 2 to 11.5 degrees, due largely to carbon emissions, the study noted.

Black Friday

Ever since 1932, Black Friday has signalled the beginning of the Christmas shopping season in the United States. This shopping extravaganza follows Thanksgiving, on the fourth Thursday of November, and comes just before 'Cyber Monday'.

Use of the name 'Black Friday' was first recorded as coming from Philadelphia, where it was used to describe heavy, disruptive vehicle and pedestrian traffic the day after Thanksgiving. Apparently, loads of people would go into town on the Friday after Turkey Day, before the yearly Army/Navy football game on Saturday; stores would take advantage of all the extra business by promoting big sales.

As 'Black Friday' became more popular in the early eighties, one "explanation" for the event became that this day represented the point in the year when retailers begin to make a profit, going from being "in the red" (meaning to be in debt) to "in the black" (meaning to be free of debt).

Black Friday is not an official holiday in the United States, but in some states government employees are given the day off. Schools and non-retail employees are normally given Thanksgiving Thursday and Black Friday as public holidays.

Most major retailers offer promotional sales with big discounts, and it has been the busiest shopping day every year since 2005. In 2014, sales revenues for Black Friday reached a whopping $11.6 billion, falling slightly to $10.4 in 2015. In 2013, overall spending from Thanksgiving Thursday up to Cyber Monday topped $56 billion!

An Ipswich mother, who allowed her son to go on holiday during school term, has been fined £400 after her son repeatedly refused to go to school.

The 36-year-old mother, who can not be named for legal reasons, appeared before South East Suffolk Magistrates Court yesterday where magistrates heard her 14-year-old son was currently on holiday in Spain.

She told that court: "He just does not like going to school. Although he is getting better now and seems to be enjoying it."

The boy has had 145 unauthorised absences between October 15 last year and March 22 this year. His absences were blamed on a late-night life style.

The mother has been attending parenting classes voluntarily and told the court that she thought they were helping her.

Out of the last eight school sessions - there are two a day - he has attended five.

Chairman of the bench David Coe asked her if she thought she could get her son to school in future.

"Yes I think I can with some help," she said.

She told the court that he was on holiday during the time other pupils were doing work experience because he had not been given a place.

On sentencing Mr Coe said: "He is not in school and then he disappears on holiday. We would expect the local authority to bring this back to court quickly if there are further problems."

She was fined £400 and ordered to pay £50.

Yesterday's case is the second to be dealt with by south east Suffolk magistrates recently. Last month a 37-year-old was fined £50 after her son had attended just 16 out of 182 sessions.

And the cases follow national concern after Oxfordshire mother Patricia Amos was jailed for allowing her children to miss school. She was originally sentenced to 60 days' jail, but this was reduced on appeal.

1. The boy had returned to school when his mother was in court.

2. The main reason for his absences was the fact that he went out late every night.

British Culture and Children

Millions of British children are "culture starved" as they have never been to an art gallery, theatre or museum, a study has claimed.

The research, commissioned by Visit Birmingham, found four in 10 children had never been to an art gallery, while a quarter of parents had never taken their offspring to the theatre.

One in five parents said they did not think their child would be interested.

The study surveyed 2,000 parents of five to 12-year-olds around the UK.

It also found 17% of children had never visited a museum, while one in 10 had not been outside their home town to visit other sites in the UK.

Half of parents said they made little effort to educate their children about culture or history and relied on schools to do so.

A quarter said they could not afford to visit attractions with 28% saying they did not have the time and 18% believed their child was "too young for culture".

However half said they were more likely to take their children sight-seeing when they were abroad on holiday.

When asked what cultural activities their children had participated in, the most popular was learning an instrument (39%), with ballet (24%), painting (23%) and singing in a choir (22%) the next most popular activities.

Just over a fifth of children were learning a foreign language.

Emma Gray, from Marketing Birmingham, which runs the Visit Birmingham campaign, said it was important for all generations to embrace cultural activity.

Culture can take many kinds of forms and it's essential our children are encouraged to get involved with this at any early age," she said.

A few trips during the year to museums, landmarks or even cultural festivals will prove to be memorable, informative and fun occasions for youngsters."

European Union

The European Union (EU) is a unique political and economic community with supranational and intergovernmental dimensions. It is composed of twenty-seven member states primarily located in Europe. In 1957, six European countries formed the European Economic Community (EEC) by the Treaty of Rome. Since then the EU has grown in size through the accession of new member states and has increased its powers by the addition of new policy areas to its remit. In 1993, the Maastricht Treaty established the base of the current legal framework.

The EU created a single market which seeks to guarantee the freedom of movement of people, goods, services and capital between member states. It maintains a common trade policy, agricultural and fisheries policies, and a regional development policy. In 1999 the EU introduced a common currency, the euro, which has been adopted by thirteen member states. It has also developed a role in foreign policy, and in justice and home affairs. Passport control and customs checks between many member states were abolished under the Schengen Agreement.

With over 492 million citizens the EU generates an estimated nominal GDP of €8.6 ($10.7) trillion in 2007. It represents its members in the WTO and observes the G8 summits. Twenty EU countries are members of NATO. Important institutions of the EU include the European Commission, the European Parliament, the Council of the European Union, the European Council, the European Court of Justice and the European Central Bank. EU citizens elect the Parliament every five years.

Are some shower curtains dangerous?

As part of an ongoing campaign against polyvinyl chloride, a Virginia-based environmental advocacy group today called on manufacturers and retailers to phase out its use in shower curtains. To buttress its case, the group, the Center for Health, Environment and Justice, released the results of a small study indicating that PVC-containing shower curtains are capable of emitting scores of volatile organic compounds, as well as phthalates, lead, and other potentially harmful materials, into people's bathrooms. A previous study, conducted by Environmental Protection Agency researchers, also found that plastic shower curtains can emit toxic compounds into the air.

There's still debate among scientists about just how serious the health effects are that have been associated with exposure to some of the chemicals highlighted as dangerous, especially at low doses. However, CHEJ, which has particularly strong concerns about the environmental and health toll in communities with factories that manufacture PVC, urges consumers to avoid using PVC shower curtains, as well as many other PVC products, particularly those that are flexible.

For people who are concerned about their shower curtains, there are alternatives. IKEA phased out PVC shower curtains 11 years ago, switching to ethylene vinyl acetate. Target, the country's fifth-largest retailer, has also committed to replacing many of its shower curtains with EVA. The company has said that 88 percent of its shower curtains would be PVC free by spring of 2008. Bed Bath and Beyond, JCPenney, and Macy's are shifting toward PVC-free shower curtains, according to the report, but have not set goals or a time frame for completely eliminating the products.

Manufacturers are not required to label shower curtains, but some do list "PVC" or "vinyl" on the packaging. The recycling code "3" or sometimes "V" also indicates the presence of polyvinyl chloride. Numerous online retailers, such as EcoChoices, Pristine Planet, and Greenfeet, sell shower curtains--primarily cotton or hemp--that are free of PVC. Without good ventilation, however, mildew can be a problem with cotton and hemp products. In response to such problems, Healthgoods sells a recycled polyester plastic shower curtain that it claims is superior to the fabric options.

Answer these questions (choose the best answer):

1. What did the study released by the Center for Health, Environment and Justice show?

That PVC stands for polyvinyl chloride.

That most shower curtains sold at IKEA are made from PVC.

That PVC shower curtains may release potentially harmful materials into your bathroom.

2. What material are the shower curtains sold at IKEA made from?

Ethylene vinyl acetate

Polyvinyl chloride

Hemp

3. What's the biggest problem with hemp and cotton shower curtains?

They are see-through.

They are too expensive.
They may cause mildew.

4. When do JCPenney and Macy's plan to switch to more environmentally-friendly shower curtains?

Spring 2008

It hasn't specified a date

Yes

5. Is it easy for consumers to tell that a shower curtain is made from PVC?

Yes, that information is always on the shower curtain label.

Not always, because shower curtains don't have to be labelled.

.Yes, but only if they're made in China

Cyber Crime

As a matter of fact, cybercrimes have become very common in our world nowadays. In this essay, I will write about reasons and ways of cybercrimes and how to protect ourselves against them.

First, there are many reasons for cybercrimes. First and foremost, cybercriminals want to steal your money. To explain this, he takes your personal information to use them for a loan, to open a credit card account in your name or to remove all the money from your bank account. Moreover, some other criminals take your personal information to get a driving licence or a passport in order to use them to get a job or to travel abroad.

In addition, these crimes can be done through many ways. For example, by hacking social media accounts and spreading viruses. Phishing is another way in which thieves may try to gather your personal information. Another way in which criminals can access your private information is through spyware.

Finally, there are some ways to protect yourself against these crimes. First, don't give your personal data to any one online. Also, don't send emails with your private information to strange people. Eventually, don't open messages from unknown persons.

To sum up, cybercrimes have become a great concern to people nowadays and I advise everyone to be very careful online.

Water Conservation

As a matter of fact, water is the most important element in our planet mainly because humans, animals and plants can't go without it. In this essay, I am going to write about uses of water and how to conserve it.

First of all, there are many uses of water. First and foremost, it is used for drinking because all living things must drink water to survive. Also, we use water in our homes to wash our clothes, wash up our dishes, clean ourselves and clean our houses. Finally, it is used to water the plants in our gardens and to grow many crops such as fruits and vegetables.

Moreover, there are many ways to conserve water in our planet. Firstly, government should work very hard to raise people's awareness about the importance of saving water. Parents and teachers should play an effective role in that. Moreover, we have to try our best to reduce the amount of water we use at home. Finally, using new technologies in growing crops is essential.

Eventually, it is really significant to conserve water because this will have a positive impact on the environment. For example, saved water will enable us to plant more trees in our cities and this will decrease the amount of carbon dioxide. Finally, we must save water for the future generations.

To sum up, water is really useful and we have to conserve it for the generations to come. I strongly believe that the UAE government is doing its best to do this and I encourage all the Emirati people to help and support the government.

The Importance of Expo 2020

Expo 2020 in Dubai will be one of the most important events in the world. Indeed, it will have many benefits to the environment and the UAE. In this essay, I will discuss its importance to the UAE and to the environment.

In the first place, EXPO2020 will bring many benefits to the environment. First, energy trees will be used for the first time. These trees will be able to take energy from the sun and add power to the whole buildings of EXPO. Moreover, alternative energy will be used in the EXPO building and this alternative energy will include solar energy, the use of water power and materials from natural resources. Finally, everyone in EXPO 2020 will have the chance to take part in discussions about global challenges and try to find solutions.

In addition to that, EXPO2020 will benefit the UAE for a number of reasons. Firstly, it will support tourism because during this great event a very large number of people will visit and stay in the UAE. Also, it will attract businessmen from all over the world to come and invest their money in the UAE which will support economy and make it more sustainable. Finally, after that, the main building of expo will be a great tourist attraction.

To sum up, EXPO 2020 will bring many benefits to our country and to the whole world as well and that's why I encourage all the Emirati people to take part effectively in this global event.

Masdar City (Eco Friendly City)

As a matter of fact, Masdar city is considered one of the most important eco-friendly cities all over the globe. In this essay, I will write about benefits of having such city.

Masdar city is located in Abu Dhabi, the capital city of the UAE. It is a sustainable eco-city. It depends only on the clean energy.

Masdar city is working really hard to solve environmental problems such as rapid urbanisation, keeping people cool in summer, burning fossil fuels and creating modern green city.

Masdar city has many benefits to the UAE. First, It will solve the problem of energy and encourage all the community to use the clean energy mainly from the sun. Also, it will decrease the amount of air pollution in the UAE and make the UAE a better place to live in. Finally, it helps the UAE inventors to invent new ways and technologies to help the environment not only in the UAE but also all over the world.

However, the cost of building this city is very high so the government in the UAE has to spend a lot of money in this city and this is one of its main negatives.

To sum up, Masdar city is a great idea and the Emirati community should support all the people who work in Masdar city to be able to tackle all the environmental problems in our country and in the world.

What is Recycling?

Recycling is one of the most important ways to protect our environment. In this essay, I will write about the importance of recycling and the UAE government efforts made in this field.

Recycling means sorting out rubbish in order to use them again or to use them to make new products. For example, a number of materials can be recycled such as paper, cans, things made of metal and things made of wood.

Recycling is very useful for a number of reasons. First, it helps both individuals and governments to keep the big cities clean. In addition, Recycled materials can be used in many useful ways. For instance, recycled paper can be used to make cartons and boxes. Also, by recycling we can reduce the amount of rubbish in the landfills.

The UAE efforts in recycling are very clear. firstly, the UAE government is working really hard to raise people awareness to take part effectively in this process. Also, all the people in the UAE are using recycled paper in all fields of life instead of the normal paper.

To sum up, recycling has a lot of benefits and all the people not only in the UAE but also all over the world should take part effectively in this process to make our cities more beautiful.

Eco-friendly houses

Eco-friendly houses are one of the most effective ways to reduce the amount of carbon emissions in our planet. They have some pros and some cons. In this essay, I will discuss positives and negatives of eco-friendly houses and state my own opinion.

Eco friendly homes have a number of positives. First, they save energy and water at home. Also, they produce less waste so we won't need more landfills to throw our rubbish. Finally, they always contain a vegetable patch which enable people to eat healthy food every day.

In spite of all the previous positives, some people still have some reservations about these eco-homes. Firstly, the cost of building such houses is so high that not all people are able to build. Moreover, Many people don't trust them specially during heavy rain, strong wind or during a typhoon season. Finally, they don't have enough spaces for all the activities people like to do at normal houses.

To sum up, ecofriendly houses have some positives and negatives. However, I strongly believe that we should continue building these houses to be able to conserve our environment for the future generations.

UAE's Efforts in environment conservation

Environment is land, air, water, animals and plants. It is very important for all people and we should work together to help it.

To begin with, there are many ways to help the environment. First, we should stop killing animals or cutting down trees. Moreover, we have to try our best to solve environmental problems like pollution, global warming or climate change. In addition, we have to recycle our rubbish to increase the number of landfills in our cities. Finally, we have to start using sustainable energy immediately.

Moreover, The UAE is working really hard to conserve the environment. First, Emirati people will use the green energy instead of traditional energy in the near future. For example, Masdar city in Abu Dhabi is working hard to solve many environmental problems and using renewable energy is one of them. Also, EXPO 2020 is going to be a very big step forward to conserve water and use the new energy. Finally, UAE government is working very hard to raise people's awareness about the environmental issues.

Finally, if we don't help the environment, we will face many problems in the future. For example, if we don't reduce the amount of air pollution, our children and even adults will suffer from many diseases. Also, if we don't stop cutting down forests, a large number of animals will lose their own natural habitats. Eventually, if we don't use alternative energy, air pollution issues will increase.

To sum up, keeping the environment clean is really important and all of us should take part in these efforts. The UAE is considered one of the most significant countries in the field of conserving the natural resources.
